Situation In Europe Grows More Muddled

Belgians Take Hostages For Bombing Of Troop Train By Germans

2ND ATTEMPT FRUSTRATED

French Reply To British Note Is Expected In London On Saturday

By Associated Press
The Ruhr valley is again the focal point of the reparations struggle between Germany and the allies, while allied differences in policy toward Germany are being threshed out diplomatically in London, Paris and Brussels.

Deadly sabotage activities by the Germans, such as Saturday's bombing of a Belgian troop train have been followed by both Belgian and French reprisals.

The great Krupp works at Essen have been occupied in whole or in part by the French.

The Belgians are seizing hostages and are preparing a program that may impose drastic penalties.

Additional towns are being occupied by the French in the Ruhr, while the city of Frankfurt, further south, is reported entirely cut off from unoccupied Germany.

In London the French reply to the British questionnaire on the Franco-Belgian policy, impatiently awaited by the British foreign office, is expected Monday. Paris indicates that the outages in the Ruhr and the Rhineland have only strengthened the French decision to hold firm until Germany repays.

FRANKFORT SURROUNDED

London.—The big city of Frankfurt, on the edge of the Mayence ridge, now is surrounded by occupied territory through French military moves, being completely cut off from unoccupied Germany. It is announced in the latest advices.

To the north in the Ruhr, French infantry and cavalry have occupied Scherfeld, near Aachen, on the Ruhr. Other troops are on their way to Hagen, in the same neighborhood.

The whole of the Krupp plant in Essen was occupied Monday and work in the plant ceased, according to messages received in Berlin, says a Central News dispatch from the German capital.

MORE BOMBS FOUND

Coblenz.—Two time bombs were found at the entrance of the Mayence tunnel Monday. One exploded with slight damage. The fuse was withdrawn from the other in time by a French artillery officer.

The French authorities have ordered street traffic restrictions and penalties in other forms imposed upon Mayence. The city officials will be held responsible for the occurrence.

40 HURT AS TRAIN HITS OPEN SWITCH

Buffalo, N. Y.—Forty persons were injured, several probably fatally when a two-car train, answering the Buffalo high speed line of the International Railway company ran into an open switch at the northern city limits of Tonawanda Monday morning. Both cars went into the ditch, the first turning over.

GREEN BAY ROAD WORKERS DIG UP OLD INDIAN BONES

Green Bay.—Workmen engaged in opening up a roadway at Edgewater beach, a resort colony immediately north of this city, uncovered the number of Indian skeletons which are thought to have been members of the Winnebago colony at Red Bluff at which Nicolet was received when he landed at this spot in 1544.

First Victim Of Fireworks Dies Of Burns

Racine, Wis.—Shouts of delight as fire crackers sputtered and then exploded with a loud report, were turned into screams of agony and fright as the flames which ignited the flimsy dress of six year old Stella Micklin, worked their way up to the face of the child, causing injuries from which she died shortly afterward at a hospital.

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon. The father of the girl was severely burned in attempting to extinguish the flames.

WISCONSIN MAN COMMITS SUICIDE IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles.—C. E. Cronk, 35, jumped from the window of his room at a hotel Monday and fell five stories to his death. In his pocket was a money order and a telegram to his father, H. M. Cronk of Oshkosh, Wis.

PROGRAM SET FOR OPENING OF HOSPITAL

New Building Prepared To Take Care Of Any Kind Of Emergency

Final details for dedication of St. Elizabeth hospital on Tuesday were completed Monday morning. The private dedication will take place in the morning and the public ceremonies will start at 1:30 in the afternoon. It is planned to complete the program by 2:30 after which inspection of the building will begin.

The principal address will be given by the Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of the Green Bay diocese. Other speakers will be F. J. Sensenbrenner, Neenah; Dr. G. A. Ritchie and Attorney J. E. Frank, Appleton.

No case will be too intricate or too trivial to be taken care of in the new hospital after this week. It was announced today that patients cannot be moved to the new building for a few days after the dedication because of the large amount of work that still remains to be done.

For more than a year equipment at the hospital has been such that all cases, even those requiring special laboratory work, could be treated in Appleton, but few people realized that they could not get the services of a technician anywhere but in the larger cities. Now that space for expansion is possible, the hospital has complete laboratories including a seven room department for X-ray work. In addition, a complete pharmaceutical department has been equipped and placed in charge of a registered pharmacist.

INCREASE FACILITIES

Operating facilities have been increased so that much more work can be done at one time than in the old building. There are two large well lighted and well ventilated major operation rooms, two nose and throat rooms, one with a dark room in connection, a septic operation room and a dental room. Between the two major operation rooms is the sterilization equipment which includes the latest type of an American sterilizer. This department takes in the entire east wing of the fourth floor. It is separated from the rest of the hospital and has an elevator connection with all the floors so that none of the smells and noise from the operating rooms will annoy the other patients. The room in which surgical dressings and materials for the operating rooms are kept is located in this wing.

COMFORT FOR DOCTORS

Every convenience has been added in this department for the well being of the doctors. A special room was provided for the instrument cabinets.

NIGHT TRAIN KILLS SOO LINE FOREMAN

Finding Of John Neubauer's Mangled Body Near Track Solves Disappearance

Disappearance Sunday night of John Neubauer, 40, Soo line section foreman living near Fremont, was solved about 7:30 Monday morning when the engine crew of Soo line No. 1 discovered his mangled body lying beside the rails about two miles west of Redfield. He was struck by a night train and it is believed death was instantaneous, but nobody knows when or by what train.

The crew of the northbound passenger train saw the body in the ditch and reported this fact to the dispatcher at Fremont, a few miles away, upon arrival there. Neubauer's family and searchers who had been busy since the man failed to return home hastened to the spot and found the body. He had been struck in the back and his body was bruised and crushed.

Neubauer was seen alive about 8:30 Sunday night at Redfield. It is believed he started for his home near Fremont about 7:00 and that one of the fast night passenger trains struck and killed him.

He leaves a widow and one son.

DRY AGENTS FIRED AS FUNDS ARE CUT

New York.—Eighteen federal prohibition enforcement agents, most of them stationed in Manhattan and Brooklyn, were dropped June 30 from the staff of R. G. Merrick, divisional chief for New York and Northern New Jersey. It was disclosed Monday. The dismissals were said to have been made necessary by the dropping of $500,000 from the government's appropriation for enforcement in the fiscal year.

Legislature Fails To Solve Main Problems

Madison.—The fifty-sixth session of Wisconsin legislature which has about ended will be remembered by legislators for the things it has not done, rather than for its accomplishments.

When the houses convened six months ago, both of them organized and controlled by the LaFollette Progressive Republican-Socialist coalition, the state expected sweeping changes in taxation, labor legislation, highway, financing, education and prohibition enforcement. The Republican and Socialist platforms promised radical departures from existing laws on these subjects.

Results show that legislation has been negative in its effect, instead of establishing important innovations. Before they left Madison, assemblymen generally were asserting that it had taken them six months to do almost nothing, due to senate unwillingness to consider assembly actions.

Taxes, the major problem of the present session, remain almost as before the legislature convened. The secrecy clause has been repealed. Governor Blaine has a bill establishing a $500 exemption on homestead improvements, and tax exemption was provided for settlers, but outside of that, revenue laws are almost the same.

This is despite the participation of Governor Blaine in the controversy.

PREDICT SHORTAGE

The legislature enacted a gasoline tax, but the governor vetoed it. He signed a bill providing a new graduated license fee based upon weight to replace the present $10 fee. Apportionment of funds is such under this bill that there will be a shortage, the highway department says.

Despite attempts to repeal and to amend, the Seeverson prohibition enforcement statute remains unaffected by the legislature. Many expected changes in the search and seizure clause when the governor took a hand in the fight. The senate refused to concur in recommendations, however.

EDUCATIONAL CHANGES

The state board of education was abolished by the session on recommendation of Governor Blaine. Other important changes in educational policy failed of passage, except one which makes proposed consolidation of schools optional with districts rather than compulsory. Many doubt whether these results are advances in an educational way.

Proposed unemployment insurance was killed by the senate as was the suggested eight hour day in industry, and the move to abolish the Wisconsin National guard. Both houses passed, and the governor signed bills lowering the hours of labor for women to nine, and bringing hotels under the women's hours of labor law. Peaceful picketing in labor disputes was made legal, and jury trials required for contempt of court cases.

The legislature granted home rule to counties and voted for the village manager plans of government. It provided for removal by the legislature of appointive officers.

Dance hall regulation became a law. Military training at the university of Wisconsin was abolished. The legislature failed to provide appropriations for the University and normal schools.

Young Thug In Daring Escape Kills Sheriff

By Associated Press
Breckenridge, Minn.—Two posses early Monday were searching for Edwin Rust, 29, who is alleged to have shot and killed Sheriff I. C. Fulkner of Brown County (Aberdeen), S. Dak., on a Great Northern train near Wolverton, Minn., and then made a sensational break for liberty.

One posse of 20 men is working for Rust, who is alleged to have fled south from Fargo, N. D., and the other, headed by Sheriff James Fitzgerald of Wilkin County, Minn., is going north.

Rust, said to be wanted in Aberdeen for burglary and robbery, and to have a criminal record in California, was arrested last Friday at East Grand Forks, Minn. Sheriff Fulkner has since for him.

On the train Sunday night enroute to Aberdeen, Rust is alleged to have seized one of the sheriff's two guns and shot the officer, and then escaped by leaping through a window of the moving train.

Shortly afterwards, a man believed to be Rust held up a motorist on a highway paralleling the track, taking a hat and $1.10 in change.

The Brown County commissioners meeting at Aberdeen late Sunday night offered a $500 reward for capture of the slayer, dead or alive.

The body of Sheriff Fulkner was brought to the Wilkin County morgue here.

PRIVATE FIRM WILL RUN MARINE PALACE

Manhattan Concern Will Operate Reconditioned Liner Leviathan

New York.—Announcement that the United States lines will not operate the giant U. S. S. Leviathan was made Sunday. Instead it was stated the coast ship would be operated by Gibbs Bros. Inc. of Broadway, Manhattan, the concern that reconditioned the former German liner Vaterland.

In making public plans for the operation of the Leviathan, Chairman Farley of the shipping board said that the Gibbs firm was chosen because of its intimate knowledge of the mechanical operation. The United States lines, which is a subsidiary of the shipping board, is not to have anything to do with the actual operation of the vessel, although on paper the craft will be listed as one of its fleet.

W. F. Gibbs, naval architect, said that in his recent widely criticized interview, given on board the Leviathan on its trial trip, he had not meant to malign British shipping interests.

TABERT HAD CHILL, IS NEW TESTIMONY

Former Foreman Says Convict Worked Better After Lashing By Boss

By Associated Press
Lake City, Fla.—Declaring that Martin Tabert worked better the day after he was whipped than for two weeks before, N. H. Lagogue, former foreman at the Putnam Lumber company, testified Monday for the defense in the trial of Thomas W. Higginbotham, former convict whipping boss, charged with the murder of Tabert.

The witness said Tabert used a shovel as member of his gang and also used a heavy pole in raising railroad track in order to allow others to fill in washouts. He worked up to 2 o'clock, Lagogue said, when he had a chill. He stopped work and a fire was started to warm him up, the witness said.

The chill occurred on Saturday after Tabert had been whipped the Friday night before.

By Associated Press
Madison.—Lieut. Governor George F. Comings Monday announced his candidacy for Governor of Wisconsin at the primary election of 1924.

The lieutenant governor has for years been a leader among the LaFollette Progressive Republicans and his announced candidacy represents the first break away from Governor J. J. Blaine, who is generally expected to seek re-election to a third term.

Following is the announcement made Monday by Lieutenant Governor Comings:

"I have decided to become a candidate for governor in the primary election of 1924. I have received such assurances of support from leading Progressives that I believe it is my duty to make this announcement. I make the announcement thus early in the hope that all the Progressive forces of the state may unite on my candidacy.

"I shall make my campaign on the LaFollette Progressive Republican platform which was endorsed by the voters of Wisconsin at the presidential election of April, 1920, and which I believe will win the election of 1924, and again received endorsement from the people.

"The particular pledges of this platform which I shall stress are the following: The ultimate public ownership of railroads and public utilities, stock yard terminals and all natural resources, the private ownership of which is the basis of private monopoly.

"Such legislation as may be needed and helpful in promoting direct operation and eliminating waste, speculation and cornering of necessities of life should be drastically dealt with. It should be abhorred as much as any other form of robbery or the taking of that for which nothing is given in return.

"The revision of the tax law where, by exemptions from income taxes shall be increased in proportion to the increase in cost of living; reasonable exemption from taxation of improvements; progressive increase in the income and inheritance taxes.

"Taxation is the greatest force for good or evil known to peaceful society.

"Taxation should be used not only to provide revenue for social need but also to provide economic prosperity. In matters of taxation, a recognized difference should be made between earned and unearned incomes. Gradually taxes should be shifted from personal property and industry privilege.

"Nothing so strengthens a democracy as respect for its laws, and an impartial enforcement of them. It is not the bootleggers' crime that so hurts society as does the disrespect of officials, who through the day, talk fine things and through the night, booze at banquets and in club rooms.

"The wet issue should not be used as a smoke screen to hide the great economic injustices of our industrial system. I pledge respect for all laws and an honest enforcement of them, including the Seeverson law.

"This brief announcement will be followed in the near future by a specific statement in regard to three or four fundamental plants which will be discussed in an educational campaign to be entered upon at once."

SPANISH WAR VETS WANTED TO MEET IN APPLETON IN 1924

Proposal Is Declined Because Bear Camp Is Not Ready

Spanish-American war veterans of Wisconsin like Appleton as a convention city and would like to meet here soon. This was made known at the state encampment in Fort Atkinson last week which was attended by Fred R. Morris of the local Charles O. Baer camp.

Mr. Morris was placed in the embarrassing position of declining the offer of the veterans to come to Appleton next year but added that this city would be in a better position to entertain the veterans the next year. Inasmuch as Beloit has never had the state encampment that city was chosen. Beloit delegates have promised to support Appleton next year for the encampment. Mr. Morris explained that no convention can be handled without the help of women, and that another year is needed to put the local women's auxiliary, recently organized, on a solid basis.

The state United Spanish-American war veterans adopted a resolution requesting the government to place veterans of all wars on an equal basis, as far as disability compensation is concerned.

State officers elected are A. T. Ladin, superior department commander; Assemblyman Clinton Price of Mauston, senior vice commander; Postmaster G. H. Herzog of Racine, junior vice commander. The veterans approved the work done by National Commander Intenza, who is a real Spanish-American war veteran, since he is an American of Spanish parentage.

MULATTO DIES AS HE LEAVES TRAIN

Traveler Dies From Heart Disease While He Waits For Train.

John L. Conley, 30, a mulatto, whose residence is at 448 East Forty-Sixth, Chicago, dropped dead at Appleton Junction at 4:30 Saturday afternoon after he had alighted from train No. 116 coming from Antigo to change cars. The opinion of two physicians called in on the case was that the man died of myo-carditis, a form of heart disease.

The man's condition was noticed by John Bransford, Conley complained that he was not feeling well and shortly thereafter, fell down on the platform. He was conveyed into the baggage room of the station and the police were notified. Detective John Duval and Driver John Kobussen responded to the ambulance call and summoned two physicians, who declared the man to be dead.

A sister-in-law of the dead man, Mrs. E. A. Lancaster, 728 Winnebago, St. Milwaukee, was notified, and the body was conveyed to that place Sunday noon. Conley is a married man, it was learned by the police. Little else is known of his history.

APPLETON MEN SEE CAR WRECKED ON HIGHWAY 15

While returning from Milwaukee on highway 15 Sunday afternoon, Louis Hoffman and Anthony Fountain saw a new Buick car in a creek a short distance north of Milwaukee. From all indications the car struck the side of the bridge and rolled down a 14-foot embankment into the creek and was partially submerged in water.

The details of the accident as recorded by a Milwaukee paper were: "George Hofer, 27, an attorney living at 741 Thirty-sixth-st. and two other persons were injured when their automobile struck a creek on highway No. 15, about two miles north of the county hospital. The others who were hurt were Lauretta Johnston, 24, 725 Downer-ave, and Helen Casler, 27, of St. Paul. Miss Casler's left arm was fractured and Miss Johnston suffered cuts to the face and head."

CITY NOVEL IN GREATEST DEMAND

Gertrude Atherton's "Black Oxen" Has Colorful Background

"Black Oxen" by Gertrude Atherton was one of the most popular at Appleton Public Library last week. Different phases of New York life from the colorful background of the novel for it is about the New York society of the well-to-do; but the novel belongs to very unlike types. Certain members of these groups occasionally shift from one to another, but each is nevertheless well defined. There is a society of a capital S, several varieties of the first being composed of the conservative middle aged and elderly matrons, trained to observance of a code, upright, inflexible, honest, loyal if occasionally dull, often possessed of no small force of character and front of this group and a marked degree of typifying it, as Jane Ogilthorpe, representative of an old and important New York family, a strong woman of good common sense, good feelings, a sharp tongue. The next generation is less clearly individualized, in several of its members, appearing as curious and very unpleasant dithering of the Countess of Zudny gave after she had revealed her secret. Then in the Ogilthorpe's granddaughter, we have the modern flapper as Atherton sees her, erotic and crude, in speech and manner, armed with cosmetics and half hearted, making the familiar excuse she and her friends are merely inevitable result of the modern determination to enjoy life.

Other popular fiction books for this week are: "Fascinating Stranger" by Tarkington, and "1912" by John. "The Life of Christ" by Papini was most popular non-fiction number week. The other was "The Letters of Walter Pater" by Housley. Both books have been in great demand among non-fiction books for the last three weeks. The "Boy's Book of Sports" by the author of "The Boy's Book of Sports" is in the children's library. "The Garden" by Frances Hodgson Burnett has been the other children's book in greatest demand.

New Lutheran Hospital Soon Ready In Chicago

CHICAGO'S new 6-story Lutheran Memorial hospital will be completed sometime in August, partly with the help of Appleton Lutherans who are contributing to the building fund. The date of dedication has not been set but several local people probably will attend.

In a description of the new building communicated to G. D. Ziegler, president of the Aid Association for Lutheran churches, by Otto C. Reinert of Chicago, it is shown that the hospital alone will cost $400,000. Auxiliary buildings such as the boiler room, laundry and nurses' home, will bring the total to $700,000.

The hospital is located on one and a half acres of land opposite Humboldt park. It is of attractive architecture, fireproof, and is being built six stories high so as to give every room plenty of light and ventilation. It will accommodate 132 patients without crowding.

Chicago Lutheran Hospital association, headed by George Leininger as president, is raising the money to pay for the structure. A large part of the amount is being obtained through the sale of bonds at 6 per cent. Bylaws of the association provide that no individual or member of the board may derive any personal benefit from the hospital. All surplus money after liquidation of the bonds must be used to build other hospitals, or must be given to Lutheran charity. The officers include one Lutheran pastor, the Rev. E. Werfelmann, vice president and there are eight pastors on the advisory board.

MECHANICAL DEVICES SPEED CABLE LAYING

In placing their wires underground on College-ave from Cherry-st to Superior-st, the Wisconsin Telephone company is now using compressed air devices to loosen the brick and cut through the concrete foundation. Heretofore the work was done with picks by hand. With the introduction of the new system the progress of the men has been more than doubled.

He will be succeeded by J. S. Rice of Fond du Lac, formerly assistant superintendent of the division. G. Z. Flambers, trainmaster at Kenosha, will succeed Mr. Rice.

ADVISES PLYMOUTH ON HOMEBUILDING PROBLEM

W. J. Berger, secretary of the Plymouth Association of Commerce has written here for information concerning a separate building organization other than a building and loan association to relieve the housing shortage. The survey of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce made through Hugh G. Corbett will be placed at his disposal.

When the housing situation was receiving so much attention a few years ago, it was recommended to the Appleton Chamber of Commerce that it organize a group of citizens into a home building association. Mr. Corbett made a personal visit to many of the cities where such associations had been formed and found that with two exceptions the associations were not successful. When his report was accepted, the board of directors of the chamber bought stock in the building and loan association, believing that to be the best means of meeting the housing problem.

Where the Sun Sinks Into the Sea

FOR six hundred miles and more, the Oregon-Washington coast overlooks the Pacific Ocean. It is, mostly a high and rocky coast of towering cliffs and bold headlands, against which the breakers dash unceasingly.

Along this coast stretches of sandy beach, some of them only a mile or two long, while others are ten times that length. Back of them are mountains and wooded hills, over and through which trails wind in all directions.

Of these sandy beaches, the most accessible, the most highly developed and the pleasantest, are Seaside and Gearhart, Oregon; and Modoc, Hoquiam and North Beach, Washington. These are the "Atlantic Cities of the Pacific."

YOUNG PIGS LOW IN PRICE AT STOCK FAIR

Young pigs brought less money at the fair Saturday than they did a month ago. The prevailing price was $2.50 to $3.50 each, according to size. Buyers were present from Madison, Beloit, Watertown and Stoughton. Sales were delayed during the early morning hours because of the lower prices offered. Some of the farmers took their pigs home with them. A few sales were made at $4 per head.

Want To Join Club To Grow Hair On Heads?

The baldheads' club, that will be the next society probably to be organized within our midst, is a national campaign to exterminate unnecessary and premature baldness is about to begin. Glossy topped men of Appleton have already received circulars to that effect, but goodness knows how it was ever learned that Appleton had bald headed men and just who they are. One recipient of request to join the movement resented the insinuation. He is not bald, he says; he merely has a high brow which is a family trait. He is suspicious of a form of commercial propaganda, and believes the "nigger in the wood pile" is a bottle of hair tonic.

MILWAUKEE THANKS CITY FOR WELCOME

Appleton people are being thanked through Appleton Chamber of Commerce for their cooperation with the Milwaukee booster train by George O. Hoch, secretary of the jobbers and manufacturers committee of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce. Mr. Hoch in his letter to Hugh G. Corbett complimented the Appleton people on their splendid reception of the men. He said that the entire trip was very successful.

Of 143,000 employed boys in New York state, 30 per cent had left school at 14 or earlier.

Mrs. Fuerst Thanks Tanlac For 16-lb. Gain

The experience of Mrs. Hattie Fuerst, highly esteemed resident of 143 Williams-st, Milwaukee, Wis., further emphasizes the value of the Tanlac treatment in correcting vital disorders and building up the system. She says:

"Tanlac is certainly a wonderful medicine for stomach trouble and to build up on. About Christmas time I took an awful cold that just seemed to effect my whole system. My stomach became so disordered my food would sour and give me heart-burn and pains, my appetite left me and I lost sixteen pounds in weight. I suffered awfully bad with headaches, dizziness, backache, nervousness, couldn't sleep well, and got so weak my housework was a burden to me.

"Well, my appetite is simply splendid now and the heartburn and stomach pains have all disappeared and I have regained all the weight and strength I lost. In fact, I feel fine in every way and just can't say enough for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

THE DEBTS OF THE CITIES

Milwaukee is the first municipality in America to undertake seriously to liquidate its bonded debt. It will set aside $250,000 a year at compound interest, with the hope of wiping out its financial obligations in forty years.

The experience of every progressive city, and Milwaukee is such a community, is that the total debt grows with development. Thus, it happens that the interest demands are so heavy that public officials do not dare to create sinking funds for debt settlement, as they would have to raise taxes still more.

Municipal bonded debts are large, yet not so large that the people could not pay them off in a year or so by supreme effort. But the taxpayers would be unwilling to clear cities of these obligations, as they realize that new debts would be contracted almost immediately.

One after another large cities will follow the example set now by Milwaukee. Though investors do not care whether amortization funds are created, so long as the security is good, it is sound business practice to consider liquidation. And an amortization fund is a constant reminder of the size of the bonded debt.

The day will come when municipalities will be forced, either by their mistakes and misfortunes or by intelligent conviction, to put their financial affairs on a basis similar to that of private enterprise. Present methods are entirely too lax and haphazard. There is very little of business principle in city government anywhere. The result inevitably is extravagance and waste. A corporation which conducted its affairs as does the average city would soon be bankrupt.

TENDER A FORMAL PROPOSAL

Semi-authentic information comes from Detroit that Mr. Henry Ford would seriously consider running for president if an offer were made "by any responsible person or party." This is about as frank a confession of being in an asquiescent mood as could be made. "No reasonable offer," as the little ads say "will be refused."

We must infer, of course, that Mr. Ford is willing to let his partisan affiliation be determined by the proposal. He is willing, seemingly, to represent any party that tenders him the nomination.

It is a safe guess that the two principal parties will not enter into competition to find out which he prefers. His best chance of receiving an offer of the nomination is from the Ford party.

ASSISTANCE FROM RUSSIAN REDS

The United Mine workers are taking steps to rid the coal-mining industry of radical socialists. District officials have been instructed to try at once any or all members who are affiliated with any organization which is inimical to the American system of government or favorable to the "red" movement. The order is issued by the international executive board.

This action is timely and far-sighted. Labor in no field will advance its cause by carrying members or agitators who are opposed to the American system of government and who are at heart revolutionists. Labor will attain the ends it is seeking through policies which command the respect and confidence of the American people. Whenever it makes itself a haven for communists and reds it destroys that confidence and sets in motion forces of resistance to its program, whereas its true policy should be to break down this resistance and to build up in its place cooperation and good will. This labor can never achieve through leadership or propaganda which strikes at American institutions.

I. C. C. SETS A PRECEDENT

The Interstate Commerce commission has denied the application of the Virginia railway for a permit to build a one-mile line to a mine of the Pocahontas Fuel company in West Virginia. The commission maintains that there are already enough mines in operation.

This ruling is a decided innovation, and it leaves room for argument. There are possibilities for the expenditure of a large sum on litigation. Practically and technically the commission is correct. There are too many mines and too many miners, and the coal output is greater, at least potentially, than the demand. But the question of business freedom is involved, and it is of great importance.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION

It is said that Senator Cummins of Iowa is thinking of resigning as president pro tem of the senate in order to devote his whole time toward perfecting the transportation act of 1920, which he and Senator Esch of Wisconsin drafted. Senator Cummins maintains that consolidation of the railroads into a few great trunk lines is the only alternative for public ownership.

Not only has the general public so far failed to get Senator Cummins' idea as to the transportation problem, but manufacturers, merchants and farmers still cling to old theories. Senator Cummins used to be considered radical in his attitude toward the carriers. His change of front signifies that he realizes that a crisis impends, and that it can be averted only by the application to the railroad problems of reason and sound judgment.

The plan is to consolidate weak lines with strong ones, and to form a number of competitive transportation groups. Consolidation ultimately will mean better service and lower rates. It is morally certain that government ownership would lead to worse service and higher rates. The commercial and agricultural interests should not oppose the consolidation plan, but cooperate with the Interstate Commerce commission to work out the right sort of a plan.

The tentative plan elaborated by the commission apparently is not fair to a few primary commercial centers. These centers should not oppose consolidation itself, but should cooperate with the commission and see that the plan is perfected.

THEY ARE FOOLING THEMSELVES

The mayor and commissioners of Jacksonville, Ill., are much flattered over the widespread comment of their action in refusing to accept compensation for their work as public servants. It is said that a telegraph company declined to give the city credit for a sixty-cent telegram, as the city had no money.

The public officials are setting a good example, and no doubt most of them are honest and capable. But they would do much better were they to make the community go through trials of reform.

Each community is to blame for misgovernment. Communities are like individuals. If their problems are adjusted too easily, they will again be lax in local politics. When the public pays the price of misgovernment it is more apt to appreciate honest, efficient rule.

TODAY'S POEM

By Bertion Braley

THAT EXPLAINS IT

The Grand Pandjandrum sits and thinks
By the shore of the robbing sea.
And whenever the Grand Pandjandrum winks,
Which he does quite frequently,
The Snickery Fish come up to launch
Sometimes for an hour or two,
Or maybe it's only an hour and a half,
But what does that mean to you?

The Grand Pandjandrum's shape is queer
And subject to frequent change,
And whether you view him front or rear
He's certainly very strange;
He's a circular cone with a spiral twist,
Which is known to a very few,
I'll tell you more if you will insist,
But what would it mean to you?

When the Grand Pandjandrum goes to sleep
He snores in a minor strain,
Which causes the Snickery Fish to weep
And launch in a way insane;
But what does all of this mean to you?
Why, nothing that I can see.
But the verse is done that I had to do,
And that's what it means to me!

STANDARD PHYSICAL TESTS

One may be exceptionally strong in a muscular way and "the picture of health" as that picture is popularly drawn, yet fail to pass a health examination. Muscular strength or muscular development does not imply good health. Neither does a weight nor moderate overweight. Neither does a ruddy or florid complexion. Neither does a hearty appetite. Neither does a capacity to worry about months or years without any medical advice or attention. I am not so arbitrary or certain about endurance. Perhaps good physical endurance does imply good functional organic health.

The National Amateur Athletic union has recently prepared some standard physical tests which will be applied to every member of the citizens' military training camps in the United States this summer. The tests include running 100 yards, running broad jump, running high jump and bar vault; the standards of physical efficiency are gauged to four age classes—first boys in their early teens, 13 to 16 years old; next boys 17 and 18 years old; next boys of college age, 19 to 20 years, and finally young men.

These tests are so valuable that I give the table here, as I find it published in Recruiting News, April 1, 1923, a bulletin of recruiting information issued by the adjutant general's office at Washington:

Points	100 Yards	Running Broad Jump	Running High Jump	Bar Vault
20	15	9-0	2-10	3-8
25	14 1/2	9-5	3-0	3-10
30	14 1/4	10-0	3-2	4-0
35	14 1/8	10-5	3-4	4-2
40	14 1/8	11-0	3-6	4-4
45	14 1/8	11-5	3-8	4-6
50	13 3/4	12-0	3-10	4-8
55	13 3/5	12-5	4-0	4-10
60	13 3/5	13-0	4-2	5-0
65	13 1/5	13-5	4-3	5-1
70	13	14-0	4-4	5-2
75	12 3/4	14-5	4-5	5-3
80	12 3/5	15-0	4-6	5-4
85	12 3/5	15-5	4-7	5-5
90	12 1/5	16-0	4-8	5-6
95	12	16-5	4-9	5-7
100	11 3/4	17-0	4-10	5-8
105	11 3/5	17-5	4-11	5-9
110	11 3/5	18-0	5-0	5-10
120	11	19-0	5-2	6-0

Scoring of points is done on the hundred point system.

	Fair	Good	Excellent
Junior high school standard (13 to 16)	40	50	60
Senior high school standard (17 to 18)	50	60	70
College standard (age 19 to 20)	60	70	80
Athlete	90	100	110

Young men without any particular athletic or physical training should be marked on the college standard, that is, any young man (which means any man) who isn't avowedly an old man ought to run the hundred yards in a dash in over 13 seconds, jump 14 feet on the broad and 4 feet 4 inches high, and vault 5 feet and 2 inches.

Some such tests as these should be required of every high school boy for a passing mark each year, and a similar scoring table should be arranged for high school girls. There is far too much farcical business, hokum, perpetrated in the high schools in the name of physical education.

Cut out the table and keep it. At the first opportunity test yourself and find out how old you are.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Is of the Same Opinion Still

Did you ever know of a case of coryza, bronchitis or other respiratory disease contracted as an untimely result of contact with a person suffering from a "common cold"? I never did, and I have had a hundred colds, always the result of temperature changes. I believe in protection to health, but the statement that colds are so contagious that the afflicted should be either muzzled or segregated is, in my judgment, a most pernicious one unless it is true, and I don't believe it is true.—T. A. W.

Answer—How about diphtheria, measles, epidemic (cerebro-spinal) meningitis, influenza ("the flu") and those very communicable upper respiratory infections popularly called "grip"? Has it not struck you that Coryza in one member of the household is exceedingly likely to spread to one or more of the others in the house within a day or two? I grant you, the temperature has probably changed a dozen times in the interim, but we do not ordinarily place much stress on that when the "common cold" proves to be diphtheria, measles or meningitis. Seldom can the specific source of infection in sporadic cases of diphtheria be determined, yet nobody questions the infectiousness of the disease. As a rule the source of infection is fairly obvious in coryza, regardless of temperature, humidity, etc. I should consider an individual who has had a hundred colds, as he calls them and who doesn't believe such diseases are communicable, a dangerous person to be at large.

Punishment
The way to take quassa chips as a tonic. You will say drink it. I mean, how much at one time, how long to steep it, etc.—Mrs. C.

Answer—It is news to me that a tonic can be made from quassa chips. I should call it punishment to no purpose.

Naturally We Prefer Hot Air
Which form of heating do you consider most healthful in a suburban or country home, steam, hot water or hot air?—R. C.

Answer—There is little choice, from the health viewpoint. Perhaps the hot air furnace has a slight advantage for small houses because it is most efficient when ventilation is carefully planned.

THE PROBLEM OF DISARM-AMENT

By Dr. Samuel Plantz

At the close of the world war there was a loud call in many lands for disarmament. The people saw that the immense debts which they were under would make the sustaining of great military organizations a financial burden that would crush them economically. It was also felt that Europe had had enough of war, and that for years to come great armies and navies would be unnecessary. Still others, realizing that armaments develop suspicion, rivalry, and a military spirit felt that the first step that must be taken to do away with war was to get the consent of the governments to a limitation of war preparations. When President Harding called the Washington Conference, it was believed a great step forward had been taken, and when it closed with an agreement about limiting naval construction it was generally held that a great victory had been won.

As time has gone on, we are beginning to see that the Washington Conference was of small significance in various ways, and especially in the matter of limitation in armaments. It did not dare touch upon the question of military equipment for land forces, so that we are as bad off in relation to the world's armies as before it convened. It did limit the construction of battleships of more than 10,000 tons; but it placed no limit on auxiliary craft, submarines, and aircraft activities. It simply changed the size of the fighting units. Any nation can build two smaller ships in place of one big one. It cannot build above a certain number of battleships that can carry sixteen inch guns, but it can build any number of craft that can carry eight inch guns. Besides it can build submarines as large as it wishes. At one of England's dockyards there is now being completed the largest submarine ever designed, a boat with a displacement of 2750 tons and 3600 tons when submerged, which is 1000 tons greater than any submarine owned by any other navy. It will carry a twelve inch gun which is as large a gun as the great battleships have carried up to the most recent times. This awful weapon will be duplicated in the navy of every strong power, for no nation can permit another nation to have the advantage such a destructive machine would give it. France has already begun the construction of a great fleet of submarines. The American naval board "plans an overwhelming supply of sea and air forces." Italy is planning a similar equipment. American naval experts tell us that this new development of submarine construction, and the proposed increase in cruisers is the logical development of the Washington Conference.

But the nations are not confining themselves to sea going equipment; they are making great developments also in aircraft. England is now building a bombing plane which far surpasses anything attempted in air construction. It is built entirely of steel, is 112 feet in spread of wing, has two 650 horse power engines completely armored, weigh 9 tons and has a capacity of 100 miles flight per hour. Lord Salisbury has announced that "no economy would hamper submarine or aircraft plans." We are therefore, to have a continuation of competition in air and sea military equipments in spite of the financial distress of European nations, and in spite of the demand on the part of millions that was shall cease. The League of Nations recently called a conference on disarmament; but at the first session it was voted that it must be secret, much to the disappointment of Lord Robert Cecil and others. An effort to limit traffic in arms was also defeated. It is very plain that certain nations are opposing the League's efforts in behalf of world disarmament, and that its armaments commission will be faced with insurmountable difficulties. We cannot believe that the great masses of the people who bear the burden of war, after seeing the awful calamities which have followed the last struggle, are in favor of the insanity of setting international disputes by force, but they sit quiet and let the military leaders and the war profiteers have their way. The only thing that will save the world from this curse is to organize the masses, to effect some means of arousing public opinion, to quicker the conscience of the nations, to do in relation to militarism what has been done by the Anti-Saloon League and other temperance organizations in America in relation to intoxicating liquors. It is to be hoped that the Christian church will see its duty and opportunity here, and lead in a world wide crusade against the military programs of the nations.

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What is novaculite and where found? H. C. C.

A. Novaculite is a hard, fine-grained siliceous rock used for whetstones. It is found in Arkansas.

Q. Has anyone ever invented an auger that will bore a square hole? B. K.

A. A machine has been invented for such a purpose, having a bit like that of an ordinary auger and with a hollow square casing which has sharpened chisel edges. The auger turns but not the hollow chisel; it follows about 1-8 of an inch behind the auger bit and throws out the corner cores.

Q. Is it true that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years? M. C.

A. The report that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years is probably due to the impatience of some of its admirers. In some parts of South America where it grows wild it blooms once in eight years, but when it has been transplanted into greenhouses under artificial conditions its blooming date is much prolonged.

Q. Who holds the first radio license issued in the United States and when was it issued? G. L. H.

A. To George Hill Lewis of Cincinnati was issued the first radio license in 1911.

Q. Can a stove which has been used for natural gas be used with acetylene gas? L. W. G.

A. According to the Bureau of Mines, acetylene gas can not be used in natural gas burners.

Q. Has the mole any eyes? F. T.

A. The eyes of the mole are very small and in many species are covered by a membrane. Recent investigations show that the eye itself is much degenerated and probably is of practically no use as an organ of sight.

Q. In playing Five Hundred when may the Joker be played in a no-trump hand when it is held by someone else besides the bidder?

Day's News of Wisconsin and Outagamie County

BEAUTIFUL ROAD CLOSED THROUGH UTTER NEGLECT

Outagamie And Waupaca-cos Dodge Responsibility On County Line

W. F. WINSEY
For wild beauty, and picturesque scenery, for past and possible service as a connecting link between highways 18, 39 and 54 and the cities of New London and Oshkosh, the most important road in Waupaca and Outagamie is the one that divides them. This road runs through rich farmlands, level and rolling, winds up and around wooded, rocky hills, drops down into deep valleys, skirts heavy pine lands here and hardwood timber there, touches swamps and swamps up and down, in and out of almost impenetrable brush, and stretches from New London south to the Yellowstone trail.

For years before the concrete highways were built, this road, because it was the shortest route and kept in shape, carried a heavy traffic between New London and Oshkosh, but for a number of years it has been neglected by two great counties, each equally responsible to the traveling public for the condition of the road it is abandoned by cars and used only by resident farmers, moving to and from their farms.

By a peculiar agreement, Waupaca-cos is directly responsible for the condition of one-half mile of this road and Outagamie for the next and so on and "neither county cares a rap, evidently, for its responsibility," says John Coonen, a resident farmer. "Not a cent has been spent on the road for repairs by either county in years, except by Waupaca-cos last year for the rebuilding of two culverts that had been washed out by a freshet forcing action."

An Oshkosh attorney who owns land bordering on the road made such an uproar last year because brush and over-hanging trees prevented him from driving to his land, that Waupaca-cos, to get temporary relief from the din, sent a man with an ax to blaze a trail, remove the timber from the road and open up a passage for the landowner to his property.

The greater part of the road, however, is well drained, graded and covered with crushed stone. It is only in short stretches that it is blocked to travel. At these points, the road bed is nothing but a ditch through boggy bottomland in which the adventurous car settles to the axles and has to be extricated by horse power.

To reopen the road to farmers and the traveling public, all that is necessary in the opinion of Mr. Coonen and Mr. Griswold is to fill these ditches through the sand with gravel or crushed stone. Both of these road-building materials can be had in inexhaustible quantities on the ground. The conditions that caused the abandonment by the public of the New London-Oshkosh road is a disgrace to Waupaca and Outagamie counties," says John Coonen, "that can be wiped out only by repairs to the road and the reopening of it to safe public traffic."

TWO ARE INJURED WHEN AUTOMOBILE SPILLS IN DITCH

Bear Creek—When the Ford touring car which Carlton Knapp of Deer Creek was driving and in which Frank Criblow of New London and Charles Knapp of Deer Creek were riding at 7 o'clock Sunday evening hit loose dirt which had recently been placed on county trunk road F, three fourths of a mile out of Bear Creek, it turned completely over, causing the two occupants besides the driver to suffer painful injuries and damaging the machine. The driver was not hurt, but the others were taken to Bear Creek for treatment and then taken to St. Elizabeth hospital, Appleton.

The young men were speeding, it was said, and apparently did not notice that holes in the road had recently been filled with loose dirt. Their injuries are thought to be severe cuts and bruises.

ON THE SCREEN

"THE ISLE OF LOST SHIPS" IS UNUSUAL PHOTOPLAY

It has been a long time since we have seen such a thoroughly satisfying motion picture as "The Isle of Lost Ships," an M. C. Levee-First National picture which opened at the Elite theatre today. It is 100 per cent entertainment and we predict that it will be one of the outstanding successes of the year.

Maurice Tournour personally directed it. That statement alone should make further comment unnecessary. For this director has an unbroken line of cinematic masterpieces to his credit. But Tournour has outdone himself, and "The Isle of Lost Ships" is such an unusual picture from every viewpoint that it merits lavish praise.

His latest offering is a powerfully told story of character development; of life lived in the raw, sketched in big, broad strokes against as weird a background as was ever conceived in the brain of man. Tournour has given to this production a vividly realistic touch and one so strikingly beautiful that it is lifted out of the land of the "fairy tale come true."

Not that this picture isn't marvelously interesting to the youngsters as well, for there are enough thrills in it to satisfy the most insatiable craving for melodrama, but, after all, it is the dream story of nine-tenths of the grown-up youngsters.

Tournour's genius is also apparent in his selection of the cast, which includes Milton Sills, Frank Campeau, Anna Q. Nilsson and Walter Long.

GOING SOME!

A single pair of rats, breeding uninterruptedly and without deaths, would at the end of three years, be increased to 359,793,482—individual rats.

This is a startling statement, but it is made on authority of the scientists of the United States Biological Survey.

The common mouse increases almost as fast as the rat.

These facts show why it is necessary to trap and kill rats and mice to keep them from over-running the house.

If left to themselves, they multiply, destroy food, and other valuable property, and spread disease. Write today for an illustrated booklet describing the most practical household methods for getting rid of rats and mice. This is a free Government publication and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Write your name and address clearly.

INDIA DECIDES IN FAVOR OF RADIOS

Delhi, India—Radio broadcasting by private enterprise is now permitted in British India through a recent decision of the government.

A national conference is in session here for the purpose of discussing preliminary details. The chairman is the director-general of Posts and Telegraphs for India.

Plans are being made for undertaking the manufacture of receiving apparatus in India. This is considered to be entirely practicable, for, even if certain parts have to be imported, it is said that the manufacture of other parts and the assembling of complete sets in this country are altogether feasible.

As widespread interest in broadcasting by radio has already been evidenced in several provinces, it is expected that this industry will attain to large dimensions.

SALE OF LOTS MOVES CENTER OF CITY WEST

Homebuilders Leave Crowded
Wards And Buy Cheaper
Outlying Land

The center of Appleton's population is no longer Oneida-st. and College-ave. That statement is clear from three observations: The vote in recent elections, the issuance of building permits and the movement of real estate.

Not only is an overwhelming vote being cast in the western part of the city, but only one-half of the building taking place in the Third and Fifth wards, but sale of vacant lots as sites for prospective homes is most active in the same area.

This migration of new home owners from crowded districts to the western portion of the city has attracted other eyes than those of Professor L. S. Smith, city planning engineer. Real estate agents have long since been awakened to the fact and are centering their activities in that area, although vacant property in the extreme east and northeast portions is also finding a good market.

Although movement of real estate in the city as a whole is probably not more intensive than that of last year, yet sale of vacant property in the west side of Appleton is more active. Records of the office of the county register of deeds show that of Appleton property sold within the last month, practically 35 per cent lay in the Third ward and nearly 30 per cent in the Fifth ward. The rest of the city contributed the remaining 35 per cent.

IMPROVEMENTS HELP
The building of Cherry-st bridge, now in progress, acquisition of Pierce park by the city, paving of Second-st., and various other public improvements are responsible for this condition.

It is the prediction of several dealers in real estate that not only will a part of the west side cease to be the west end and become the central part of the city, but that the Pierce park area will develop one of Appleton's finest residential districts.

It is a fact quite well known that before the city's purchase of Pierce park, there were four or five homes in the neighborhood. Within the last two or three years they have sprung up by the dozen, and some of them are among the city's finest.

The tendency of fine home districts to cluster around public parks has been observed in other cities as well. Beauty of scenery adds to the appearance and value of the neighboring properties, and an abundance of fresh air is also considered.

BUILD NEAR PARKS
This fact may also lead to the development of another good residential district in the vicinity of Erb park, purchased by the city last year, and the proposed east end junior high school, just as the site of the proposed west end junior high school is even now attracting a number of home owners. Beautification of the school grounds, laying of an athletic course and the improvement of a small park at one end of the 12-acre site, will practically make it a park.

Improvements are also taking place constantly in the First ward and other well built up areas of the city. Lots with old, dilapidated or old-fashioned houses are being purchased and the buildings replaced with modern ones. It has been the observation of A. C. Rule, city assessor, that settlers usually cluster around a church of their denomination. It is predicted by one realtor, however, that the order will some day be reversed, and churches will follow the people to the churchless portions of the city.

Population also is often dense near street car lines. Although the increased use of the automobile has left the average resident less dependent upon the trolley cars as formerly, yet bad weather and the closed winter season force many to seek locations with transportation facilities for that kind of weather.

PREFER CORNERS
Corner lots are usually the first to be sold in blocks, although some buyers prefer the closed in lots because of the reduced price. Settlers who desire a good view and appearance forget the added cost of street improvements and value the corner properties as a better investment.

Disposal of lots is twofold, either through the organized method of dividing plots into lots or through sale of scattered lots in well built up sections. Choice lots in the First and Second wards are hard to find. What vacant lots still remain are netting lucrative prices. This fact has discouraged several prospective builders from locating in the thickly settled residential districts and induced them to seek locations in outlying and often unimproved territory of the city, a practice disapproved by some realtors and encouraged by others.

PRICES NOT LOW
Strictly speaking, there are few low priced lots in town. Appleton has proved to strangers to be a desirable location, and they are willing to pay the price. Choice lots for residence purposes in the oldest section of the city, the First and Second wards, are selling from $2,000 to $3,500 and more. Lots in the west and north ends of the city bring the owners $350 to $550, although a few may be had for less and some net even more. Lots in the Fourth ward usually sell for a third less than in other parts of the city. Real estate men look for no great decline in the price of real estate, doubled since the late war, and are therefore advising prospective builders who desire a good location to invest now and build when they can.

There would be double the amount of building in Appleton if additional means were provided for financing, according to one prominent real estate man. Although Appleton has a building and loan association, it has not the available funds to finance all the homes that might be built. A large number of persons desire long time payments.

Rain Fell Here Just In Time To Prevent Large Loss To County Farmers

Corn Is In Excellent Shape But Grain Suffered Severely From
Drouth—Alfalfa Prospects
Are Good

Although the long looked for rains, which arrived last week, were considerably tardy, they nevertheless proved a boon to farmers in Outagamie county, especially to those living in close proximity to Appleton, according to Robert A. Amundsen, county agricultural agent.

Farms in certain extreme portions of the county were visited with rains somewhat earlier, yet a week ago Sunday marked the beginning of the end of the prolonged drouth. The subsequent rains helped materially to better the conditions so that farmers again are becoming optimistic. While the rains last week probably came too late to make bumper crops of some of the principal farm products and although the nearby strawberry crop was nearly dried up under the scorching rays of the sun, yet farmers consider themselves fortunate in that their crops were merely curtailed, not spoiled.

CORN IS GOOD
Corn is practically the only farm product in the county that has very encouraging signs. With a good supply of rain and warm weather in August, this year's crop may even excel the bumper crop of two years ago. The plants are already far in advance of the same period last year. There are fields after fields of corn that is more than knee high. Farmers usually look for a good crop if corn is knee high by the Fourth of July. The last few days of cool weather did not retard the growth very much, for the period was accompanied with considerable moisture which benefited the crop even as it did other crops. Corn about Appleton and Greenville is not as good as that in the Hortonville and Seymour country.

LABOR IS SCARCE
The shortage of farm labor is menacing the farmers as much this year as it has done in some years, but the harvest season when labor is needed most has not yet arrived. The average farm wage being paid this year throughout the state is $4.40 with boys. This is for crop season hands and is about $5 or $9 higher than last year's wage. In 1921 the average was $4.50.

One thing over which the farmers are pleased is the increased price of milk. The price through May was $1.22 a hundredweight, which is 66 cents higher than the price of $1.26 in May of the year previous. The peak of milk prices was in 1919 when farmers were receiving $3 to $4. This month the milk flow was somewhat reduced on account of the severe heat, the dried pastures and the presence of flies, Mr. Amundsen said.

GOOD ALFALFA PROSPECTS
Alfalfa, aside from that which was killed last winter by the severe cold, is in good condition. The drouth has not affected it as much as the mixed hay. Last year's acreage of 1,600 acres has been increased to probably 3,000 this year. The acreage in 1921 was 900, while that of next year is expected to reach 8,000. If not more. Farmers are constantly becoming more alive to the value of alfalfa, as it yields three crops to two of clover and one of timothy and mixed hay, and the volume is from four to five tons an acre. The soil is quite free of acidity and thus well adapted for the purpose. Farmers that inoculated alfalfa seed are reaping the benefits.

Clover seed has a good stand throughout the county, but timothy and mixed hay is rather short. Very little has been cut this season. The last few days of cool weather has retarded haying to a small extent.

Barley was in fine condition in May, but its growth has been somewhat thwarted by the June dry weather. Last week's rains, however, are expected to make a great change in the grain.

OAT CROPS CUT
Oats is standing very low and is beginning to head out. It also had a severe setback this month. It is heading out short; the rains therefore came too late to give this grain the help needed. The crop is about 89 per cent normal, as compared with 96 per cent last year. Rye, though grown in less proportions, is about 85 per cent normal.

A most unusual feature of the crops was the condition of the pastures. June is considered the best month for pasturing, for at that time the grass is at its best. Because of the drouth a number of farmers were forced to turn their meadows into pastures.

This season there was scarcity of cabbage plants which probably will cut down the cabbage crop in spite of the increased acreage. Dry weather also retarded the growth of this vegetable. Cabbage planting, however, still is in progress, and Mr. Amundsen finds it rather premature to forecast this crop.

CHECK UP STORES ON FIREWORKS SALE

Law Requires Certain Devices
To Be Kept 200 Feet
From Buildings

Chief George T. Prim of the Appleton police force, as well as several members of the fire department have been checking up on stores where fireworks are stored and sold to see if the law is being complied with. Several store proprietors were compelled to remove illegal fireworks. H. Menzel, state fire inspector, is expected to be in Appleton this week to visit stores handling fireworks.

All large fire crackers, torpedoes, roman candles, paper caps and like articles must be stored in buildings not less than 200 feet from the nearest buildings unless they are in wholesale storage in the original unbroken packages. Those who are erecting booths or tents should see that they are fully 200 feet from any other building.

sen finds it rather premature to forecast this crop. Condition of sugar beet fields varies. In some cases the seed failed to appear, and in other cases the fields are standing fairly well. Sugar beet workers are now engaged in thinning and blocking.

Tomatoes are doing fairly well, but the early peas were a partial failure, due to the drouth. Canning still is in progress. Peas are grown largely in Hortonville and Greenville. Greater hopes are held forth for the late pea crop which will begin to be canned about July 4.

SECRET MESSAGES
Big business and other organizations will soon be sending their messages through the air with greater speed and secrecy than even their private telegraph lines. For the long expected system of secret and fast radio-communication is almost ready for general adoption. So far as speed is concerned, the government stations and those private towers that send their messages across the Atlantic are already equipped with apparatus that accomplishes this. Messages can be sent out faster even than they are typed by a competent stenographer. Received with the same speed, a machine slows them down so that the typist may be able to copy them. Even this last operation is being done away with by a machine already in use at naval radio stations. This apparatus, called the teletype, sends and receives radio messages in typewriting, so that there is no need of slowing down the last signals for human reception.

More important than speed, however, is secrecy, which engineers have been trying to attain ever before radio became popular. Large business firms, with branches all over the country and in Europe, have seen the practicability of inter-branch radio communication, but have been reluctant to adopt it because of its lack of secrecy. Now their opportunity is at hand.

Of the many secret devices invented by various engineers, two are prominent. One is the code system already adopted by the Navy Department and the other is the Berlin secret radio-photographing process which has been under experimentation for some time.

The first invention is that of Edward H. Hebern of Oakland, Calif. It is so secret that no human being has anything directly to do with the coding and decoding of the messages. The machine does that.

In the tests during the battleship maneuvers off the Panama Canal recently, the machine automatically coded and decoded messages typed for transmission. All the operator had to do was insert the proper "code wheel," at either end. This machine is so complicated that

CABBAGE ACREAGE CUT 20 PER CENT

W. F. WINSEY
"The acreage of early and late cabbage about Appleton, this season is 20 per cent less than last year," according to W. C. Williams, Appleton cabbage buyer. A partial cause of this reduction is that the lateness of the season and the stubborn cold weather, retarded the growth of cabbage plants

It is said to have eleven million variations among the 26 different code wheels, each of which corresponds with a letter of the alphabet. And the number of changes a single code wheel can be put to, some statistician has computed, rises to the inconceivable number of 40,303,146,321,064,147,046,400,000.

Hardly a chance for any eavesdropper to fathom a message sent this way.

and made them exceedingly scarce and hard to get. Then again, after transplanting, the excessive heat and drouth killed a large proportion of the plants. As a result of this killing and shortage, would-be-cabbage planters are scouring the country in every direction for long distances, in the hope of finding somewhere a surplus of plants.

Mr. Williams, himself, has planted 10 acres of early cabbage and 20 acres of late cabbage.

PROGRAM SET FOR OPENING OF HOSPITAL

New Building Prepared To Take Care Of Any Kind Of Emergency

which the doctors have purchased and a large dressing room equipped with showers has been arranged for them. In order that the internes may be within reach for any emergency, sleeping rooms for two of them have been located in this part of the building.

Up to this time, almost no dental cases have been treated in the hospital, and the dentists have felt the need for taking some of their work over there. Now a complete equipment will be installed and any serious cases when the patients need special care will be taken there.

Because of the enlargement of the building, a great many more cases will be hospitalized by the doctors and this means that the pharmaceutical department will be busier than ever before. The department's stock is restricted to drugs which are prescribed by the doctors and to chemicals which are needed. Because of the anticipation of the treatment of many more minor accident cases, infections and the like, the pharmaceutical department has been greatly enlarged. It has been found that in the time saving element, this department is of great benefit to the patients. Standard prices are charged for its products.

EMERGENCY ROOMS

Emergency rooms in which first aid treatment can be administered have been placed on each floor. Cases which require no surgical treatment can be taken care of there without delay.

Dr. M. J. Sandborn will be in charge of the X-ray department in which every kind of X-ray apparatus needed in a hospital will be placed. This laboratory is in the basement, across from the regular laboratories and has an exit for patients in connection.

A special deep therapy room has been arranged and also space for fluoroscopy and radiography. The department includes seven rooms. The regular laboratories will be in charge of Sister M. Venantia who is a technician and M. Lambert who is both technician and dietitian. Sister Lambert's services will also be given to the maternity cases which need special diet consideration. Both of these sisters are able to take care of any of the work which comes to so large a hospital.

Up to the time of the opening of the hospital, only urgent cases which could not be treated in the home, have been taken at the institution. Now many more people who could be treated at home but who would be greatly benefited by hospitalization, will be able to take advantage of the splendid equipment. Some people find it beneficial to take a complete rest from their work and have gone into the cities for this purpose. Now they will be able to remain in Appleton. It is expected also that the doctors will take cases to St. Elizabeth for observation; a medical help which has been denied to Appleton patients because of the lack of accommodations.

John Conway, chairman of the building committee is in charge of the dedication program. Members of St. Elizabeth club will be ushers and guides in the building after the program and from 9 to 12 and 2 to 6 on Wednesday. Every one in the vicinity is invited to be present at the program and to go through the building before the patients will be moved in. The privilege of inspecting the structure will be withdrawn after Wednesday because considerable work will be necessary before the patients can be moved.

LEAGUE HELPED AUSTRIA BACK TO SOUND FOOTING

Remarkable Progress Toward War Restoration Made In Last Few Months

By Associated Press
London—More has been accomplished to place Austria on a sound financial basis in the past few months than could have been done in 50 years without outside aid. The League of Nations has accomplished this, and the result of its efforts have been called miraculous by the leading financial experts of Europe. The Austrian committee of the league, reporting recently to the general council, made these statements:

Not only has the money of the country been stabilized, but it has been possible to arrange for the floating of an extra loan, 33 per cent of which is covered by government guarantee and the remaining seven per cent to be provided by other nations. London financial houses have expressed the opinion that the loan could be raised within a very short time, and virtually all of it in England.

It is an important fact that, in addition to facilitating the loan, the allied powers and certain of Austria's neighbors are entering into commercial agreements with her designed to end the fatal isolation which has been in force since the war.

The Austrian chancellor, Dr. Seipel, said recently that the attempt to restore his country's economic life would have been doomed to failure at the outset if undertaken by any organization other than the League of Nations. He cited as proof of returning confidence the fact that more

Public Schools House Almost 5,000 Children Each Year, Says Report

Grades Show Loss Of 42 Pupils—Total City Enrolment Outside Of Vocational School Increased By 58 This Year

There are 4,897 children between the ages of four and twenty years enrolled in the public schools in this city out of the 5,340 which the school census shows there are living in the city, according to information contained in the annual report of Miss Carrie E. Morgan, city superintendent of schools. The report contains a great deal of valuable educational data including a brief history of the five years' work on the junior high school projects.

The census shows an increase of 58 in the number of persons of school age on June 30, 1922 over the July census of 1921. The Fifth and Third wards have the largest number of children of school age, while the second ward has the lowest. In the division into school districts, however, the Third has the largest with 2,500 in comparison with 818 in the Fourth district. The largest number of children who attend parochial schools live in the Third district. There are more boys than girls of school age.

The following is the school census table:

	Boys	Girls	Total
First	522	522	1,044
Second	275	275	550
Third	647	647	1,294
Fourth	400	400	800
Fifth	613	613	1,226

KINDERGARTEN DECREASES
Enrollment in the public grade schools shows a net loss of 42 for the year, largely in the kindergartens, according to Miss Morgan, because the children in that department are not of compulsory school age. The opening of the school for the deaf in Kaukauna took the Kaukauna pupils from the Appleton deaf school.

The following is the table which shows grade school enrollment according to districts:

	Boys	Girls	Total	Gain	Loss
First district	289	314	603	—	—
Second district	470	400	870	—	55
Third district	457	436	893	44	—

Ungraded room	12	7	19	—	10
Total	1,411	1,323	2,734	44	65

The enrollment in the schools exclusive of the vocational school is 58 more than last year according to the figures but if all the information regarding transfers in and out of the city is available, it would be much higher. The enrollment was 3,619. Vocational school enrollment is given below. There was a total gain of 15.

479 GRADUATES
Records show that 475 pupils were graduated from the public schools in June. Of these, 49 were from the First district, 54 from the Second, 67 from the Third and 10 from the Fourth. The high school class numbered 162 and 137 were graduated from the vocational school.

The average daily attendance was 3,156.3 or 87 per cent, which is the same as last year. The truancy officer investigated 34 cases of non-attendance at school. Of these, 231 were boys and 203 girls. His report shows that only 35 were actual truants, 151

Discus Cherry Camp
Miss Vesta Hutcheson of Bloomington, Inc. camp director of the girls' camp of cherry pickers at Sturgeon Bay, was in Appleton Sunday consulting with Appleton girls, and with J. E. Denton, camp manager. Miss Hutcheson had just completed a tour of lake shore cities as far north as Sturgeon Bay. She is a member of the senior class of Indiana university.

were parental neglect and 217 were caused by other things.

In the report of Miss Lucy Verity, the school nurse in the First and Second districts, only 187 out of the 1,062 children examined were considered perfect. Those considered perfect except for defective teeth were 397. Miss Verity's report showed that she had made 564 home calls, 507 telephone calls, had given 247 school talks, and had made 643 miscellaneous inspections. It was necessary to exclude 75 children from school during the year because of contagious diseases.

Miss Morgan recommends in the report that Appleton have another school nurse for the Third and Fourth districts, and that at least one city nurse be employed. Because parents are negligent in sending for a doctor and because they allow sick children to play with others and even to attend school, it is imperative that school nurses be employed to determine whether a child is ill. She points to the number of epidemics which could be stopped if the first case could be isolated at once.

NEED PLAYGROUNDS
The superintendent also recommends the use and equipment of playgrounds. She points out the need for gymnasium facilities in all the schools no changes have been made in the courses of study or textbooks in the grade schools during the past year because all are waiting the development of the junior high schools before making what changes will be necessary. Mention is also made of the banking systems by which the students are urged to become savers.

A comment is made on the average daily attendance at Appleton high school, which is 973.6 out of 1,042 students. By means of the telephone calls to parents when the children are not in school, truancy almost has been abolished at the high school. The history of the junior high school moves according to the report, dates back five years when a campaign of education about the city to create the sentiment for the junior high school plan was begun. Miss Morgan traces the development of the plan step by step to the present time.

VERMONT COLLEGE HAS LARGE TRACT OF FOREST LANDS
3,900 Acres Of Woodland Fall To Middlebury School By Terms Of Will

Middlebury, Vt.—Rejection by congress of the offer in the will of Joseph Battell of Middlebury, of a large tract of the Green Mountain Range for use as a national park, gives to Middlebury College what is believed to be the largest body of heavily timbered land owned or controlled by any educational institution in the United States. It also means that Mr. Battell's hope to preserve a great section of the Green Mountains in their virgin form will be realized in a notable way.

By the terms of the will 3,900 acres of land in the towns of Lincoln and Warren, Vt., near Middlebury, were offered for use as a national park. It was provided that if congress failed to accept the land it would revert to the ownership of Middlebury College. The college already had been left a tract of more than 25,000 acres of mountain land which Mr. Battell had spent his time and fortune for 50 years to acquire. The new bequest added to this gives Middlebury College practically 31,000 acres of mountain country.

President Paul Dwight Moody said recently that the college proposed to satisfy its own conscience and that of the courts in carrying out the terms of Mr. Battell's will.

Openness to vision rather than accessibility to market influenced Mr. Battell as, bit by bit, he acquired these lands. He sought scenery, not timber. Sections beautiful for their timber growth or for their situation impressed him, and especially when they were of virgin forest seemed to be in danger of destruction.

That the 3,900 acre tract was not accepted by the United States government for a national park is no reflection upon the gift or upon the scenery. The adverse action was taken solely because congress did not believe it was expedient to extend the national park service into Vermont at this time.

Scientific forestry will be applied by the college to a part of the tract, but under the provisions of Mr. Battell's will a large part of the holdings will be preserved in a primeval state.

In addition to his craving to acquire scenic lands, Mr. Battell was widely known for his unflinching opposition to the automobile and his friendship for the horse. As a breeder of Morgan horses his name became well known, and the farm used by him has since been bequeathed to the government. It is known as the United States Government Morgan Horse Farm.

Of all the numerous opponents of automobiles 20 years ago, few were situated as was Mr. Battell to carry on his propaganda. Through the columns of a weekly newspaper, which he owned, the champion of the horse conducted his campaign against the mechanical innovation.

Each week a column or more was reserved in the publication as a "chamber of horrors" in which the increasing number of automobile accidents was recorded. Sometimes, it is said, the press was stopped in the midst of a run on Friday afternoon so that the latest accident, which might be at a point on the Pacific Coast, could be added to the list. Editorially, Mr. Battell also fought the new transportation medium, urging that new roads be built for automobiles and that the old highways be preserved for horses.

While this campaign was under way Mr. Battell founded an unique hotel on a plateau near Breadloaf, a thousand feet above Middlebury. From this private tract he barred all gasoline-propelled vehicles. A telephone line from the village gave warning of any attempt to invade its precincts.

Today hundreds of cars make their way in summer up the once secluded road to Breadloaf Inn, and Middlebury College has established in the hotel a summer school of English, to which for a six weeks' period teachers come from all parts of the country for intensive study.

FREE PRISONERS IN WORKHOUSE UNTIL JUSTICE IS FOUND
Hearing In Habeas Corpus Case Is Postponed Until Friday
Because John M. Schmitt, Justice of the peace at Hortonville, is at present outside the county, the writ of habeas corpus in the proceedings to release Julius Klein, Hortonville proprietor of a soft drink parlor from a 60-day sentence could not be served upon him. The case, therefore, which was scheduled for Monday morning in municipal court has been adjourned until 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Klein was released temporarily by Judge A. M. Spencer on his furnishing bail in the sum of $300. He will be able to spend the Fourth of July with his family. Justice Schmitt was ordered to bring to court all records of the proceedings in which he sentenced Klein to the workhouse for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The battalion will include Co. D of Appleton and the companies from Neenah, Menasha, Sheboygan and Green Bay. These military units will assemble at the armory at 10:30 to be ready to join the parade at 11:10.

Visiting posts of the American Legion and the Oney Johnston post will follow the troops after the Oshkosh Drum and Bugle corps. Legionnaires will assemble at the city park at the Park-ave entrance at 10:30. There will be delegations from Seymour, Menasha, Neenah, Oshkosh and other cities.

The route to be taken by the parade is from the east end of College-ave to Cherry-st, then to Second-st to the Story-st entrance to the park. No automobiles except the official and the decorated ones and the floats will be allowed in the park. The decorated cars and floats will take the positions in the parking space allotted to them immediately after the parade so that people may see the decorations if they are interested. Parking space for all other cars has been arranged for in adjoining property under the management of J. B. Lankenshaw.

CONTINUOUS PROGRAM
 Continuous band concerts and continuous dancing are two of the entertainment features of the afternoon. The artillery band will take the stand upon its arrival at the park. It will be relieved at times during the afternoon by other bands. Carl McKee will be the soloist with the artillery organization and other entertainment will be furnished throughout the afternoon by Harry Oaks, chairman of the entertainment committee. Among these features will be the McCloskey dancers.

Music for dancing in the afternoon will be furnished by the Mellorimba Society orchestra and in the evening by a special artillery dance orchestra. The Mellorimbas will furnish the music for the dance at Pierce park on Tuesday evening, which is really the first event of the celebration.

Troops in the parade will be fed in regular army style under the direction of Ray Meldrum, mess sergeant, and two army cooks. Although guests will be able to buy lunches on the grounds, no hot meals will be served in the park, but restaurants and hotels are preparing for large numbers of guests at meal times.

A special drill will take place Monday evening at Armory G for Co. D's rehearsal of its program after lunch at 1:30 Wednesday. Instructions will be given by Major Fred Hoffman, assisted by Captain Rogers, who is in the city for national guard drill. The evening drill at 5 o'clock will be one of the most interesting military events of the day.

HOLY LAND NEEDS MORE CAPITAL TO EXPLOIT WEALTH

Palestine Must Overcome Lack Of Capital To Develop Natural Riches

Jerusalem—Commenting upon the economic and hydraulic resources of Palestine, A. E. Southard, formerly American consul here, says the outlook for the prompt realization of the hydro electric and irrigation schemes proposed by foreign engineers is not encouraging. He believes the chief difficulty is in raising sufficient capital, and the general lack of population and established natural resources. He thinks the Jordan Valley is too narrow for irrigation purposes, but says that if irrigation could be accomplished it would add enormously to the variety and value of the commercial agricultural crops of Palestine.

Concerning economic conditions in Palestine, Mr. Southard says that only very restricted credit facilities are available, as the banks now confine their business almost entirely to receiving money for deposit and checking accounts, to buying and selling gilteese negotiable paper, and to making short-term loans against substantial and safe merchandising security.

Inability to secure long-term loans has seriously affected agricultural development. Agriculture in Palestine does not yield a great margin of profit, and can hardly support the present interest rate of 3 per cent and upward. In the absence of a bank dealing in agricultural loans the Palestine farmer has had to depend mainly upon private money-lenders, who often exact as much as 15 per cent interest on loans. There are a few cooperative loan societies among the Jewish colonists, but they have not been able to exercise any important influence in relieving the situation.

In this connection Mr. Southard explains there is need in Palestine for pawnshops. "Well-regulated establishments of this sort," he declares, "should be of real economic value in aiding people who find it necessary to raise small personal loans. This is a line of financial undertaking which offers favorable inducements to foreign investors."

There are many investment opportunities in Palestine, Mr. Southard thinks, but none of them appear particularly promising at the moment. "Schemes have been advanced for harbor construction," he says, "for port building, for hydro-electric development, for agricultural enterprise on a large scale, for general real estate development, and for a variety of proposed industrial enterprises. Railway construction is not likely to receive immediate attention on any important scale, as the country is already reasonably well supplied in this respect. Harbor and port construction, and possibly hydro electric development, will require such large sums of money that the first years of their existence are apt to be barren of dividends of any sort, and therefore they are likely to await government capital or guarantees."

The former American consul says there are many industrial enterprises in Palestine eagerly seeking capital, but that "because of such handicaps as lack of local supplies of fuel, raw material, etc., some of them will not be successful, and the few which may pay their own way in operation are not likely to return real dividends for many years. Care must therefore be exercised to an unusual degree in considering the investment of money in Palestine in industrial enterprise."

FARMER INJURED AS HE LEARNS HOW TO DRIVE NEW CAR

Two Freedom Parties Figure In Accidents Over Weekend

Two automobiles tipped over in the vicinity of Freedom over the weekend, causing considerable damage to both cars and injuring two men. The injured are Theodore Vandenberg, Sr., and his nephew, Theodore Vandenberg of Freedom. Lambert Vandenberg, father of the younger victim was slightly bruised.

The Vandenberg party was driving Sunday afternoon about 2 1/2 miles northwest of Freedom near the Valantine cheese factory in a new car, which the younger Theodore Vandenberg was selling to his uncle. The uncle was learning to drive the car when the younger man accidentally stepped on the gas and the sudden spurt ahead caused him to lose control of the machine, which crashed into the ditch and turned over. The uncle suffered a broken collar bone while the younger man broke his arm at the wrist and elbow. They were taken to Little Chute by the Rev. F.

The other accident took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the Little Chute-Freedom road when Theodore Vandenberg of Freedom was returning from Appleton. When his attention was attracted from the car for a moment, the machine started for the ditch and in his effort to jerk it back into the road, he caused it to turn over. He escaped injury, but the car was badly damaged.

ANOTHER HEARING ON CHANGE IN ZONING LAW

Little interest has thus far been shown at previous public hearings on matters pertaining to the city zoning. Another hearing will be conducted by the ordinance committee tonight in the city hall on two proposed amendments, one to transfer the south 166 feet of block 31, Fifth ward, from the residence district to the commercial and light manufacturing district, the other to create a new local business district in the southwest triangle of State and Second-ave.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

A startling ninth inning rally which netted six runs, kicked Appleton out of first place in the Wisconsin State league, and lost a thrilling game to the Harris crew by a score of 8 to 7. The game was played at Fond du Lac Sunday afternoon. Appleton had the game sewed up with a five point lead until that fatal frame when four hits and three errors led in six runs. Lathrop pitched a superb game until the ninth, holding the Red Sox to scattered hits, except in the first when two blows sent in two runs.

Three hits and a base on balls gave the Fondy crew its first markers in the first frame after the Brautigans had been let down without a chance. The Papermakers evened up the score in the fourth when Delmore busted the ball over the fence for a homerun, scoring Lathrop ahead of him.

A bombardment in the six inning gave the home crew five more runs. Schultz was hammered all over the lot, the Brautigans pounding out four hits, which mixed with an error, apparently put the game on ice. Brillmeyer started the ninth with a two base blow and he went to third when Durain's grounder was muffed up. McClintock was passed and Stumpf singled, scoring Brillmeyer and Durain. Sten followed with a two base knock which scored two more runs. Faris was thrown out and Barbeau followed with another double bag hit, scoring Sten. Barbeau scored when Brundage's grounder was booted.

NEW LONDON BEATS NEWMAN CLAN, 15-9

The New London Home Players defeated Newman's Rivals, 15 to 9, Sunday, taking the new Appleton team down to its second loss in two starts. The game was featured by heavy hitting by the New London clan, which knocked Drexler out of the box in the third stanza. He was replaced by Brautigan, who also was unable to check the swinging demons. The Rivals made a triple play in the eighth inning. Rehfeld to Nabbeled to Drexler.

BROKAW WINS GOLF HANDICAP TOURNEY

In the final match for the director's cup at the Riverview Country club golf course Saturday, N. E. Brokaw defeated Kenneth Dickinson at the nineteenth hole by one stroke. This ends the handicap tournament which started some weeks ago, and gives the cup out up as prize by the club to Dickinson for one year.

Do you know Baseball?

Questions
1—Is there a limitation to the length of the baseball bat?
2—What is the weight of the official major league ball?
3—If the batter hits a ball into fair ground in front of the plate, and before he moves out of his box, the ball rebounds and hits him, is it fair or foul?
4—If the pitcher delivers a badly discolored ball to the batter, what is the penalty?
5—Is there a restriction on the size of the gloves that can be worn by the players in the field?
Answers
1—The bat cannot be more than 42 inches in length. At the thickest part, it cannot be over two and three-fourths inches in diameter.
2—The official ball must weigh not less than five nor more than five and one-quarter ounces.
3—The batsman invariably stands in foul territory when at the bat, therefore a ball that hits fair, and bounds back and hits the batsman before he leaves the box it always regarded as foul.
4—The pitcher shall be automatically suspended for such an offense for a period of 10 days.
5—The catcher or first baseman may wear any size shape or weight glove. The other players cannot wear a glove weighing more than 10 ounces, or measuring over 14 inches around the palm.

Sheboygan Beats Marinette-Menominee In 3 To 2 Game Sunday

Sheboygan—The Chairmakers broke the Marinette-Menominee winning streak by opportune hitting here on Sunday by a score of 3 to 2. Brilliant fielding featured the game. Four double plays were executed, three of which were by the Marinette-Menominee infield.

FINAL PAYMENT FOR DEMPSEY DUE TODAY

Kearns Says He'll Talk If The Payment Is Not Made On Time

By Associated Press
Great Falls, Mont.—Payment of the final $500,000 installment of Jack Dempsey's $300,000 guarantee is scheduled to be made to Jack Kearns, champion of the heavy-weight championship Monday by Major G. L. Lane, new trustee of the fourth of July heavy-weight championship fight at Shelby, George H. Stanton, Great Falls, banker, and Roy E. Ayres, who are appointed with Lane in the management of the bout, said that the money would be paid in accordance with the terms of the contract.

Kearns was advised Sunday that $50,000 was immediately available and the balance would be in hand from the $5,000 contributions made by twenty leading business men of Montana. He was in conference with Stanton and Ayres at Dempsey's camp Sunday when assurance was given Kearns that the payment would be made.

Major Lane, who spent Sunday in Shelby, was scheduled to arrive Monday to make the payment.

GEORGE HAMILTON TWO RIVERS, HIGH GUN AT TRAP SHOOT

S. H. Clinedinst, Menasha, Gets Highest Score Of Club Members Sunday

With 147 hits out of a possible 150, in his credit, George Hamilton, Two Rivers marksman, was high gun at Sunday's trap shoot instituted by the Appleton Angling and Shooting club. S. H. Clinedinst, Menasha, was high gun among the club members with 139 targets out of 150 smashed. C. Larson of Waupaca, who held the championship formerly, was crowded out of that position, making 141 out of 150, which still was sufficient to win him a gold razor, but lost him his crown. F. Siefken, Milwaukee professional, scored 137 out of a possible 150, using a 20 gauge gun. Other marksmen who won one of the gold razors offered as prizes to the club were J. H. Cook, Weyauvegan, with 141 out of 150; T. M. Cook, Waupaca, with 112 out of 150; J. E. Hamilton, Two Rivers, 128 out of 150; C. W. Stribley, Kaukauna, 107 out of 125; and K. E. Stansbury, Appleton, and R. W. Getchow, also of Appleton, who were tied, Stansbury having a score of 123 out of a possible 150, and Getchow 86 out of a possible 100.

In the doubles the scores were as follows: George Hamilton, Two Rivers, 43 out of a possible 50; J. E. Hamilton, Two Rivers, 26 out of 50; T. M. Cook, Waupaca, 35 out of 50; C. W. Stribley, Kaukauna, 34 out of 50; and S. H. Clinedinst, Menasha, 29 out of 50.

Among the remaining participants in the shoot, some very creditable scores were made, also, but did not prove quite good enough to win the prizes. Mrs. C. W. Stribley of Kaukauna, one of the two women who took part, broke 91 of her 150 targets, and Miss Margaret Hamilton of Two Rivers, 89 out of 150. George Buetow of Van Dyne got 84 out of 100. H. C. Puth, Appleton, 67 out of 75. H. C. Getchow, 37 out of 50. W. Willara, Appleton, 42 out of 50, and Fred Schlicht, 19 out of 25.

The prize offered for ladies' high gun was a leather bound tourists' writing set, won by Mrs. C. W. Stribley.

HORTONVILLE TEAM BEATS APPLE CREEK

Fahlstrom Pitches His Team To 3-1 Victory Over Strong Rivals Sunday

Apple Creek met its Waterloo at Hortonville Sunday, 3 to 1, in one of the tightest and best games played among the independent teams of the county this season. Fahlstrom permitted nine hits, and Nelson eleven. A two-bagger by Knutsen, the Hortonville leftfielder, in the fourth, brought in the two runs which won the game for his team.

Next Sunday brings the Apple Creek clan a chance for revenge, when Hortonville invades the enemy city for a return match. New London sends its team to Hortonville on July 4.

Batteries: Apple Creek—Nelson and Peotter; Hortonville—Fahlstrom and Holer.

Puzzling Plays By Billy Evans

Plays in which the batsman interferes with the catcher are always trouble makers.

In a minor league game last summer the umpire was twice forced to rule against the same player. In each case the interference was identical, yet the ruling different. In the second inning, with one out and a runner on first, the runner started to steal second. The catcher called for a pitchout. As he started his throw to second the batter managed to poke him with his bat in such a way that his throw went wild and the runner went to third. The umpire called the batsman out and sent the runner back to first.

In the seventh inning, with a runner on third and one out, the squeeze play was put on. Again the catcher called for a pitchout. The batsman failed to bunt the ball, but so interfered with the catcher in making a play at the plate that the runner crossed the plate before being touched. In this case the umpire called the runner out. Thus on identical plays two different rulings were made. Was the umpire right?

The umpire was right in each ruling. When the batter interfered with the catcher with a runner stealing second, the batsman was sent back to first.

When the batsman interferes with a play at the plate when a runner is trying to score, the penalty is made all the more severe by eliminating the chance of the team at the bat to score the run, by declaring the runner out.

Chicago—Fred Williams, Philadelphia increased his lead over Babe Ruth, who leads the American home run roster, 12 over during the week with his twenty-first homer Saturday. Ruth has 14.

Quinn And Nuss Arrive Today To Finish Work For July Fourth Scrap

Details Are Complete For All-Star Fight Card In Armory G On Wednesday Afternoon

Joseph Quinn, veteran Gunner, and James Nuss, a citizen of De Pere, Wis., will renew their argument before a houseful of men and women in Armory G at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Nuss had slightly the better of their first public misunderstanding which was held in Fond du Lac, wherefore Mr. Quinn is making heroic preparations for evening up matters in their second getto here this midweek.

The two gentlemen whose every motion is said to be a picture, are winding up the details for their performance. Both are expected in Appleton before tonight so the men and women who are paying good money to see them in action will have a chance to see them in their street clothes.

BIG TICKET SALE
The ticket sale has taken a sharp spurt, indicating a capacity house for the show. There are a lot of good seats still left, however. Fight followers who are interested in the fortunes of Messers. Dempsey and Gibbons, who are having another battle of the century at Shelby, Mont., will be able to keep tab on the giants by attending the show in the armory. News by word report of the Shelby fight will be supplied by the American legion which is sponsoring the go here.

Thirty rounds of boxing will be furnished the fans at the armory show, providing all the scrappers are on their feet when the final round of each battle ends. Four excellent preliminary bouts, bringing together the best new talent of Fox river valley cities, have been arranged.

Four Appleton youths—Frank Elsch, Eddie Phillips, Dick Boya and Young Ryan—take on a quartet of scrappers from nearby cities. Dr. D. J. O'Connor has been designated by the state boxing commission as official examiner of the scrappers. He will give the boys the double O at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Attorney Mark S. Catlin will represent the commission in the ring. Music before and during the fight will be furnished by the Seymour band. This aggregation of musicians will march from Pierce park to the arena shortly after lunch and will entertain the bugs while they are waiting for the big card to begin. Report of the Shelby fight will be started about 1 o'clock.

It was some time later that Gray opened his eyes and spoke in a more natural voice, saying, "How do I happen to be here in your house, Allie?"

"We brought you over at daylight. Buddy's gone for a doctor, but he'll be back." The girl averted her face quickly and moved toward the window.

"He ought to be at the well—putting it out. God! What a sight! I see it yet!"

"The well is out!" Allie returned and seated herself beside the bed. "You probably won't understand it or believe it—I can scarcely believe it myself, for it's a miracle. All the same, it is, out, shut, in, and not much damage done. You're not ruined, either, for Buddy says they're short of fuel here, and a gasser this size is worth a good deal—most as much as a fair oil well."

"How can it be shut in? It was blazing, roaring—a tower of flame. The derrick itself was going—"

"I know, but the strangest thing—Allie spoke breathlessly. "Let me do the talking please. You remember the drill stems were standing over in one corner? Well, the fire drove every body off, of course; there was no face in it, and they thought sure they'd have a job—have to send for boilers and another it down with steam, maybe, or tunnel under, or something—work for days, maybe weeks, and spend a fortune. Anyhow, they were in a panic, but when the derrick went down what do you think? That stack of drill stems fell in such a way as to close the gate valve at the top of the casing."

"It—sounds incredible." The speaker made an effort to collect himself, he raised an uncertain hand to his handaged head. "What ails me? I recall a lot of things, but they're pretty well confused."

Allie made known the nature of the accident resulting in Gray's injury, and he nodded his understanding. "So Buddy saved my life!" He smiled. "Great boy, Buddy! I'll know better than to mix it with him again—he learns too quickly."

"Oh, it was terrible!" Allie Briskow suddenly lost control of herself, and bowing her head, she hid her face in the musty patchwork quilt. Her shoulders shook, her whole strong body twitched and trembled. "You've been awful sick. I did the best I could, but—"

"There, there," Gray placed his hand upon the girl's head, he took her and in his hand stroked it. "I'm not worth your tears, child. And, anyhow, I'm all right again; I am, indeed. I'm as well as ever, so far as I can tell. By the way, what set the well afire?"

"Buddy thinks somebody must have dropped a cigarette when the stampepe came." The girl raised her face and wiped the tears from it.

"It has been raining cats and dogs; the creek has overflowed and everything is under water."

"Under water? Here? Why, that can't be." Gray insisted upon this, and Allie finally consented to his doing so; then, despite his protest that he was quite able to take care of himself, she helped him to the window. From that position he beheld a surprising scene.

The Briskow farm lay in a flat, saucerlike valley, arid and dusty at most seasons of the year, but now a shallow lake, the surface of which was broken by occasional fences, misty clumps of bushes, or the tops of dead weeds. The nearest Briskow derrick was dimly visible. Its floor awash, its shape suggestive of the battle mast of a sunken man-of-war.

Allegedly Briskow sang, while she prepared supper, for the reaction from the strain of the last twelve hours was like an intoxication. Mr. Gray was in no further danger; he was well except for a bandaged head and some bruises. And he was here alone with her.

Supper, when the two sat down to it, proved to be a pleasant meal, for the soft glow of the lamp, the warmth from the stove, made of the Briskow kitchen a cozy place, while the drumming of the rain overhead enhanced their feeling of comfort and security.

During the night an explosive crash followed by a loud reverberation awoke Calvin Gray and brought him up sitting. His room was lit by white flickers, against which he saw that the rain still sheeted his windows; he fumbled for his watch and found that it was two o'clock. This was a storm, indeed, and he began to fear that this deluge might swell the waters to a danger point; therefore he rose, struck a light, and dressed himself. Sleep was out of the question, anyhow, and such an uproar. As he stepped out upon the front porch, his attention was instantly drawn to a yellow glow in the west, a distant torch, the flame of which illuminated the angry night. He stared at it for a moment before he realized its meaning.

Hearing an exclamation behind him, Gray turned to behold Allie Briskow's dim figure in the door. "Hello!" he cried, excitedly. "Did you see that? Yonder are two wells afire."

"I know, I haven't closed my eyes. You can see another from my window." Allie snapped the light from a pocket flash upon Gray, and, noting that he was only partly clad, she urged him to come into the house. When he ignored the request she joined him, and together they stared at the mounting flames.

"Jove! That's terrible!" he muttered.

"Look here," Allie directed the beam of her light down over the edge of the porch, and moved it slowly from side to side. The surface of the water was not only burdened with debris, but also it was thick with oil. "It's just like that on the other side. That gusher on sixteen must be wild."

"I dare say it won't get any worse," Gray spoke with a carelessness that he was far from feeling, but his tone did not deceive the girl.

"It doesn't have to get any worse," she declared impatiently. "There's oil enough here to burn. We're in the middle of a lake of it. What'll happen if it catches fire?"

"At least we'll be as well off inside as out here," Gray declared, and his companion agreed, so together they went into her room, where side by side, they peered through her window.

"I've read about this sort of thing," Allie was saying. "Tanks bursting and rivers afire. It spreads all over, the fire does, and there's no putting it out."

"One thing sure, this lightning won't last long." A blue glare and a rippling explosion gave the lie to Gray's cheering words. Allie Briskow recoiled from the window.

"We'll be burned alive!" she gasped. "Roasted like rats in a trap. I—I'm frightened, Mr. Gray." She drew closer to him.

"No need of that. We'll get out of this scrape somehow—people always do. A flicker lit the room and he saw that the face upturned to his was wild eyed, strained. That brief glimpse of Allie, like a picture seen through the shutter of a camera, remained long with the man, for her hair was unbound, her lips were parted, and her dark eyes were peculiarly brilliant; through the opening of her lacy negligee her round, white neck and swelling bosom were exposed. It was a head, a bust, to be remembered."

"You got to—hold me," she said huskily, and he felt her body shrink close to his. She clung tightly to him, trembling at first, then shaking in every limb. Fright, it seemed, had suddenly mastered Allie Briskow.

Gray endeavored for a moment to soothe her, then gently to loosen her hold; he spoke to her as he would have spoken to a terrified child, but the wildness of her emotion matched the wildness of the night, and her strength was nearly equal to his. Roughly he tore her arms from about his neck and put her away from him; by main strength he forced her into a chair, then snatched a covering of some sort from the bed and folded it around her shoulders. His voice was hoarse—to him it sounded almost brutal as he said:

"Get hold of yourself! We're in no great danger really. Now then, a light will help us both." With clumsy hands he struck a match and lit the lamp. "Light's a great thing—drives away foolishness—nightmares and fancies of all sorts." Without looking at her he seized the electric torch and muttered: "I'll take a look around, just to see that things are snug. Back presently."

Gray laid stress, hold of himself, but it is not easy to subdue thought, and he could feel those strong, smooth, velvet arms encircling him. Disorder without and chaos within this house! The heavens rumbled like a mighty drumhead, the lightning made useless the feeble ray in his hand. It was the place, the hour of impulse. Gray swore savagely at himself, then he stumbled into his room and dressed himself more fully.

"Well, there doesn't seem to be much change," he said, cheerfully as he opened Allie's door awhile later. "The fires don't seem to be spreading." She was sitting where he had left her, she had not moved. "Anything new on this side?"

World Union Of Working Women
Convention Aim

BY HARRY B. HUNT

Washington—A new milestone in world democracy will be reached Aug. 14, when representative working women of the world will assemble in the old Schoenbrunn palace in Vienna, where emperors of the old order in Europe held sway, to map plans for furthering international trades union organization among women.

American working women will be represented by nine delegates. The conference, which will be the third biennial congress of the International Federation of Working Women, will include representatives from some 20 nations.

The program provided for consideration of measures "to unite organized working women in order that they may resolve upon the means by which the standard of life of women workers throughout the world may be raised."

PLAN OF ACTION

Among the specific steps by which it is proposed this be approached will be:

1. Promotion of trade union organization among women.
2. Development of an international policy giving special attention to the needs of women and children.
3. Examination of all projects for legislation, proposed by the International Labor Conference.
4. The appointment of women in all organizations and committees dealing with questions affecting the welfare of workers.

AMERICAN DELEGATES

The American delegation will be headed by Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chicago, international president of the federation. Workers delegates will include Elizabeth Christman and Agnes Nestor of Chicago, glove workers; Agnes Johnson, Chicago, shoemaker; Maud Swartz, New York, printer; Rose Scheidemann, New York, seamstress; Frieda Miller and Pauline Newman of Philadelphia and Mary Dreier, New York, waist-makers.

The conference was originally arranged for Bruhl Castle, Cologne, Germany, which has been transformed into a labor college. When a chance, however, came to hold the sessions in the old imperial summer palace of the Austrian capital, where Franz Joseph so long resided, the appeal could not be resisted.

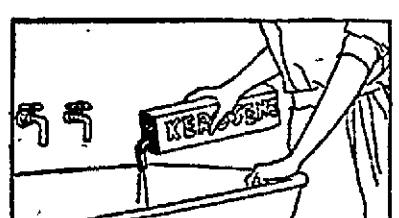

Psychologically, it was felt the convening of a democratic international working women's conference in the precincts where autocratic power so recently held sway, would in itself give helpful stimulus and inspiration to the proceedings.

Among the women of other countries who will be present are Dr. Marion Phillips and Mrs. Harrison Bell of Great Britain; Mlle. Helene Buriaux, Belgium; Mrs. Kathleen Derry, Canada; Mme. Laura De Kayas Bazan, Cuba; Mlle. Bozema Kubickova, Czechoslovakia; Mlle. Meanne Bouvier, France; Signora Casartelli Gabrieli, Italy; Frau Betsy Kjelsberg, Norway; Mlle. Sophie Dobrzanska, Poland; Mrs. Mary Fitz Gerald, South Africa; Mlle. Angele Monnier, Switzerland.

Household
Suggestions

PORCELAIN SINKS

Clean porcelain and enameled sinks with kerosene and whitening. The kerosene cuts the grease and the whitening allows for a certain amount of friction.

GARBAGE CAN

In the summer time your garbage can needs extra attention. Clean it frequently with strong soda or lye solution and rinse it thoroughly after each washing. If you line it with paper and change that daily, you will not need to scrub it so often.

KEEP HAT CLEAN

Brush your hat after each wearing.

If you want to keep it presentable for several seasons.

OMELET

Cook your omelet over a very hot fire if you wish to avoid toughness. Do not make the mistake of using too large a pan.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

Add grated cheese to your scalloped potatoes. A little pimento also improves them.

DRESSMAKING AT HOME

(This is the first of a series of twelve articles describing the art of sewing in the home. These articles were prepared by an expert dressmaker who has given considerable thought to home sewing.)

Solving the dress problem and reducing the high cost of living at the same time is an opportunity few women will be inclined to miss.

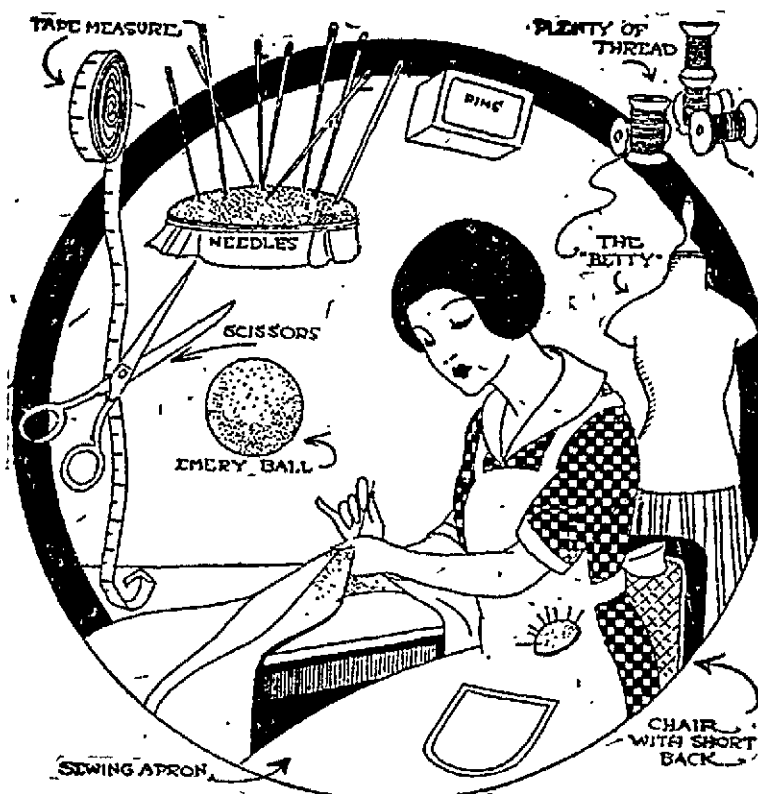

It is open to the home dressmaker, and her number is increasing each day by the hundreds, not only among those in moderate circumstances, but also among the well-to-do and even the very prosperous.

For, aside from the economical phase of home dressmaking, sewing is distinctly a feminine occupation and, if undertaken properly, a delightful one.

To begin with, here are a few suggestions calculated to make sewing not only profitable but also pleasurable. First, select a chair with a short back and no arms and then sit erect, not tense—just easily erect. Sitting on the end of the spine constantly is one of the causes of "nerves" and nervousness is to be avoided if dressmaking is to prove successful.

Have all implements at hand and in order—well sharpened scissors, a goodly number of needles in assorted sizes, dressmakers' pins which come by the box, plenty of thread in assorted numbers and silk "as required," tape needle, tape measure, an emery ball, black and white snaps, hooks and eyes, black and white silk and cotton seam binding. A sewing apron of saten with pockets and tapes for taking care of these necessities is a convenience.

There must be a machine, of course, if any extensive dressmaking is to be done, and restricted space makes the portable model particularly desirable. But, in any case, the point is to keep the machine perfectly clean, well oiled and in good working order for, as every home sewer knows, a machine is as temperamental as a prima donna.

Finally, there is the form or, in dressmakers' parlance, the "Betty," which now comes inexpensively enough in papier mache, or which can be made by pasting strips of gummed paper over a tight-fitting undershirt as it is stretched over the figure.

With this form at hand and all the other equipment as suggested above, the rest consists in having the work carefully planned, the model to be followed clearly visualized and the mind in a state of tranquility.

TOMORROW: Lines and lining.

Wedding Ring
Is Real Badge
Of Authority

Your beautiful square-cut solitaire set in platinum with a tiny sparkler on each side of it says, my dear young woman, that you have not been engaged very long; at least not seven or fourteen years like that meek maiden whose father made Jacob serve so long and diligently. For even seven years ago engagement rings were different. For one thing they were not carved in a design that later is to be matched in the wedding ring.

And yet the carved rings, jewelers say, are a revival of a very ancient fashion. They were found in the ruins of Pompeii and everybody knows Cleopatra wore them.

"Did Cleopatra have a carved wedding ring?" you ask.

History is very remiss on the subject, but be assured if Cleopatra recognized the custom of all, she had a good many. Certainly not just one.

History of Ring

Did you know that your platinum-set diamond solitaire has been evolved from an iron ring worn by engaged maidens 200 years before the Christian era? At first they served as wedding rings, too, and then a wedding ring was introduced with a key attached that gave the wife sole access to the household valuables. They remained a symbol of authority even after the key was discarded. So pay no attention to those women who tell you that a wedding ring is a "badge of servitude." Your orange-blossom-engraved circlet is a symbol of authority just as its predecessors have been for nearly 2,500 years.

Rings of all kinds are more popular this season than they have been for many seasons. All women are wearing them. Wonderful diamonds

FASHION HINTS

ALL SHADES

All the shades of red, from pale pink to the deepest crimson, are to be very much in demand for fall, particularly in millinery.

PAJAMA STYLES

Very attractive pajamas now come in Italian silk. Some are bound with ribbons of contrasting color and others are finished with ruffles of the material, the edges of which have been piped.

FALL SILHOUETTES

There is no danger that the straightline frock is to be ousted for fall, though there are many variations of the circular flounce and the pleated skirt shown.

BLUE FASHIONABLE

Paris is sponsoring old blue for are set in platinum with sapphires and emeralds, most of them square-cut and set horizontally across the finger, but many still cling to their oval and marquise settings.

Aquamarines and Amethysts

There are rings of black onyx with small diamonds incrusting in the onyx, sometimes in the center and sometimes sparkling coquettishly from one or two corners. Green Onyx is used in the same way. This, too, is a revival. Perhaps you have seen long earrings and a brooch of this sort.

And then there are the aquamarines that are having a great vogue this year. They are clear, grayish stones with blue and green lights. They are cut square and set in white gold, sometimes with the popular flanking of little diamonds. And there are just as many amethysts as there ever were, cut square to be up to date and set in green or white gold. —New York Mail.

fall to replace the Lanvin green that has been so popular for the past season.

BEADED CHIFFON

Beaded chiffon frocks, particularly those combined with Chantilly or shadow laces, are being made up for fall. They are designed for evening wear and come in the delicate shades.

TAPESTRY COAT FROCK

A novelty in Paris is the coat dress made of tapestry. It is a wrap around model, showing a lining of green that harmonizes with the green in the dress fabric.

FANCY SWEATERS

White wool sweaters are adorned with bands of cross-stitching in the gayest of colors, that decorate the cuffs and hems and sometimes the bells.

UNCURSHABLE RIBBONS

Uncurshable ribbons are used on the newest lingerie and they are a great improvement over the old type. You can crumple them in your hands as hard as you like, but they smooth out immediately after you release them. They are washable also.

FANTASTIC BAGS

The most festive and fantastic rubber bags are on the market to be used for carrying the bathing suit to and from the beach. They take the form of dolls, ducks, chickens and bouquets, and are much more decorative than the old style of holder.

SCRAMBLED EGGS

With Fresh Asparagus Tips
By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Boil one cup asparagus tips, then cook for five minutes in three tablespoons butter. Add salt and pepper and one teaspoon lemon juice.

Break six eggs into a bowl, add one-third cup cream or top of milk, one-half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper and beat with a fork for two minutes. Add to the asparagus and cook, stirring steadily until the eggs are set.

Serve on hot toast.

Eggs always harden after being removed from the fire, so it is well to serve them immediately.

COLD SALMON
MAYONNAISE

For a warm night, cold fish such as salmon, makes a delicious and satisfying main dish.

For a family of six or eight, buy a piece of salmon weighing two or three pounds. Place in two quarts cold water to which has been added a tablespoon vinegar, half a tablespoon salt, one small sliced onion and a sprig of parsley. Bring quickly to the boil, then simmer until salmon comes away easily from the bone.

Remove from water, take out bones and remove skin. Chill and at serving time, cover with mayonnaise, and garnish with cold cooked green peas which have been dressed with oil, vinegar, pepper and salt.

Note—If mayonnaise is not enjoyed by the family, a cooked dressing may be used instead.

BLACK LINGERIE

Black lingerie grows more and more popular, particularly the elaborate lace-trimmed variety. It is also shown in navy blue and in brown.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE, CONTINUED

I don't know how long I was lying on the bed, little Marquise, after I had closed the door on Jack. I only know that it seemed as though my heart would be torn apart with my sobs.

Then I soon heard a tapping on the bedroom door and Jack called, "Leslie, I did not answer."

A louder tapping and a louder voice, "Leslie."

Then I did not answer.

"Don't be a fool, Leslie. Open the door."

Slowly I rose to my feet and went into the bathroom and tried to take some of the tear stains from my face. My eyes were almost swollen shut.

I did not want to go to him. I didn't want to go to my own husband. I didn't want to make up. I just wanted to go home to my mother.

I never would have left her had I known marriage was to be like this.

Here I had done my very best. I had made a beautiful home for the man I had married; a man who before the wedding had showered me with the most expensive entertainment of all kinds and who was now very angry because I had put a little more money into something which was to make us both more comfortable than he had expected.

Like a dog in the manger he would neither help me to fit out the apartment nor be satisfied with it when I had finished.

Again Jack was knocking, this time so loud that I was afraid the people in the other apartments on either side would hear him. Quickly I went to the door and opened it.

"Leslie, I'm sorry," he said. "I ought to have remembered all the things you told me. I ought to have understood that money was for our home and nothing else.

"It is a beautiful place, but I was so in hopes that we could use some of that money to make a payment on this stock and fifteen hundred dollars a year is too much for us to pay for rent."

"I never realized it would cost so much more for two people to live than for one. I wish I had hold of that liar who has spoken to the contrary."

Then he laughed, took me into his arms and whispered with his mouth close to my ear, "I do love you, little girl, and I know I am hard to live with."

"I presume I will break your heart many times, but I don't mean to do it. I don't mean to hurt you. I wouldn't trade you off for a million of those economical girls you described to me."

"You know, however, that when a man has plans for other things and sees these plans dashed, he just has to get the rage and disappointment out of his system. The one who is nearest him then, whether it be his wife, his stenographer, his best friend or his barber: that's the person that has to play martyr while he applies the modern tortures of the inquisition."

In the meantime he had picked up the lease add, going over to your beautiful old desk, little Marquise, he signed it with a flourish and presented it to me.

"There, Mrs. Prescott, you will now forgive me, won't you, and I think we will be very happy here even if I do have to work like the devil to get the rent money."

Heigho, little Marquise, I wonder if you would be quite as happy here, if you were I and if Jack and you had never had this useless quarrel.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

What The Ragdolls Do

"Now then," said Mister Tatters, the leader of the Ragdolls in Raggy Land, "Everybody knows everybody else, so that's off my mind. Now for business. Do you know you have come to the busiest place on this square earth?" he said to the Twins.

"Why, the earth is round," cried Nancy. "It says so in the geography books."

"Oh, is it? Excuse me," said Mister Tatters, winking at Rag Tag.

"Well, anyway, it makes no difference whether it is round or square or three cornered. It keeps us Ragdolls so busy at this time of year we haven't time to eat three round meals a day."

"But meals are square! You all ways speak of square meals," corrected Nancy again.

"Oh, are they? Excuse me," answered Mister Tatters, winking at Rag Tag.

"That are you so busy about?" asked Nick, curious as usual.

"Spring cleaning," said Mister Tatters.

"Spring cleaning?" cried Nancy, clapping her hands. "That's fun! May we help? We helped Mr. Rubadub one time to spring clean the animals that came back from Dreamland where they had spent the winter. It was lots of fun."

"That is entirely different," explained Mr. Tatters. "We spring clean places for the animals and birds to come to. Also we help the spring felices in every way. You can't hang up clean lace curtains until the house is scrubbed, and neither can the spring fairies scatter their pretty blossoms and flowers around until the woods and meadow and orchard are cleaned up."

"That's what we Ragdolls do! We spring clean all outdoors. But you certainly may help if you wish. Our first job is to fix up Mr. Scare Crow for the summer. We are leaving at once."

CHILDREN'S HATS

For children there are very charming hats in mushroom shape, of light straw bound with a bright color and decorated with quaint birds and flowers made of raffia.

SCARFS FASHIONABLE

This year the fashionable frocks devote all their energies to the skirts and leave the blouses quite plain. Consequently lace scarfs and yards of tulle wound about the throat are particularly effective.

SCALLOPED EDGES

Scallops are effectively used this season on crepes and linens. Some times they are bound with a contrasting color or with grosgrain ribbon.

ENVELOPE PURSES

Very flat envelope purses, sometimes a foot long and nearly half as wide, are carried under the arm by the smart Parisienne.

WOMAN SO ILL
COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimony about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. IN THE MAW OF THE INFERNO

6-FIGURE SALARY MEANT FOR YOUNG MEN, SAYS MARVEL

Robert W. Woodruff Is Head Of
Coca Cola Corporation
At 33

Athens, Ga.—Is any man under 35

worth a salary in six figures?

"No," say economists, quoting statistics.

"Yes," says Robert W. Woodruff.

"Plenty of big jobs are waiting for the right men—the younger the better. But the salary isn't the main thing, for accomplishment itself is more important than money."

Woodruff refuses to give away his own salary secret, but he is generally given credit for having proved that a man doesn't have to wait until he's gray-headed to land a big executive job.

He is 33 and he has just been elected president of the Coca Cola Company, a $50,000,000 corporation. He is also vice president of the White Company, Cleveland motor truck manufacturers.

Within a dozen years Woodruff has become one of the biggest industrial leaders in the South. His father, Ernest Woodruff, banker, financier and manufacturer, predicted disaster when the son turned down a family-picked job and went out on his own.

"There's no magic password," says Woodruff. "The young man has a better chance at the big jobs than the older man because he has a smaller run handle men; he can fill any kind of a job in any kind of industry."

Associates say Woodruff is a 100 per cent picker of men. He has this unique system: He hires a man without having a definite job for him and then he lets him find his own way. If he doesn't fit himself into the right niche, Woodruff doesn't want him.

"You don't have to blow your own horn," he says. "Ability shows even if the words are a bromide. You read advice to young fellows to dash into the boss's office and pound on the desk and demand a raise. Men who do that sort of thing always remain unimportant men."

Woodruff thinks there are two rea-

SCIENCE FINDS METHOD TO BRING RAIN WHEN NEEDED

Charged Sand And An Aeroplane Are Necessary Appliances

By Associated Press

Washington—Rainmaking and the dissipation of fogs and clouds by a process invented by Dr. L. Francis Warren is a scientific possibility, and the further perfection of apparatus no doubt will prove its feasibility, said Dr. R. B. Moore recently to The Associated Press. Dr. Moore is chief chemist of the United States Bureau of Mines. While he has not yet had opportunity to see Dr. Warren's apparatus in operation, Dr. Moore has been interested in the method since its inception and has had faith in the soundness of the scientific principle on which it is based.

"The rain-making method consists in charging a dielectric (a material that retains an electric charge, such as fine sand) with a static charge, and then sprinkling this sand over the top of a cloud by means of an airplane," said Dr. Moore. "As everyone knows clouds consist of minute particles of water, a large proportion of which are charged. All the particles in the same cloud are charged either negatively or positively and, therefore, as they come to the same sign they repel each other when they come into too close contact. This mitigates against the coalescence of the particles into a size that allows them to fall through the atmosphere in the form of rain. Anything which will dissipate the charge on the particles will help coalescence and, therefore, will assist in precipitation."

"I have had no opportunity for personal observation," Dr. Moore continued, "in connection with the tests already made, but I have read the affidavits of the observers. From these it appears that a single airplane has been able to dissipate a cloud a mile or two long and over 1,000 deep in a few minutes by using about 100 pounds of charged sand."

"The apparatus which Dr. Warren uses for charging the sand is not by any means perfected; and he is able only to get 12,000 or 14,000 volts on the fine sand," Dr. Moore continued.

"In addition it has not been possible so far to charge more than a small proportion of the sand grains. I see no reason why the voltage cannot be increased, with improved apparatus, up to 30,000 volts or even more, and also why the percentage of charged grains cannot be greatly increased. Under such conditions a still greater effect should be obtained with a given weight of sand."

"The work is still in its initial stages and it is difficult to state definitely its future possibilities. No trials have been made on fog, as the conditions have not been favorable for an airplane to go up in a fog and make the test."
